SILVER COINAGE

Report of Director of the Mint Burchard—Profits of the Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Director of the mint Burchard has prepared a statement showing the amount of silver coinage into silver dollars under the act of 1878, with the disposition made of the same, and showing also the profits on the coinage of silver dollars from the beginning of the fiscal year in which he became director of the mint, 1879, up to the 30th of June, 1883. From this statement it appears that silver on hand July 1, 1879, and purchased since then amounts to 123,447,483 ounces, of which 119,206,224 ounces have been used in the coinage of silver dollars and some subsidiary silver coin; 304,875 ounces have been wasted by the operative officers of the mint and sold in sweepings, leaving a balance on hand July 1, 1883, of 3,936,381 ounces. This remainder has been weighed and verified by the officers of the treasury department. The profits on the coinage of silver, including payments by Adams Express Company, amount to $17,342,113, of which sum $17,581,713 have been deposited in the treasury of the United States and $336,309 have been paid for shipping silver dollars; $51,035 for loss on sweepings sold, $71,439 for wastages and $48 for loss on recoinage, leaving a balance in coinage since June 30, 1883, of $1,276,899, all of which since that date has been turned into the treasury.

THE PROFITS OF COINAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The director of the mint is preparing a statement to show the profits arising from the coinage of standard silver dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1883. The amount thus made is very large, being in gross for the five years since July 1, 1878, the enormous sum of $17,342,113. Nearly all this profit has gone directly into the treasury, for after subtracting wastage, cost of coinage, transportation and other expenses, there is left a net profit in standard dollars and subsidiary coin, over the bullion value at the respective dates of purchase, of over $16,800,000. This is equal to an average net profit for five years of $3,360,000 annually. Large as it seems, it is not so great in proportion to the value of the issue as that which results from the coinage of baser pieces. Last year the profit from coinage of nickels and one cent pieces at Philadelphia was about $100,000. The director of the mint is cooling a little in his affection for standard dollars. He says he thinks we have enough of them. He will probably recommend the repeal of the compulsory coinage clause in his message this year. Treasurer Wyman reports a pretty fair demand for the dollar at New Orleans, which is usual at this time of the year. Owing to the fact that the dollar is repugnant to the Pacific coast, coinage has been almost stopped at San Francisco.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Security for National Bank Circulation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Folger said last night that he had not yet expressed any opinion as to what steps congress should take in the matter of providing bonds to be used in national banks in securing their circulation, in place of the three per cents being called in. The published statement that he had declared himself in favor of two per cents, long bonds, and of the purchase of four per cents at a premium for substitution for those of the lower rate, he said, was made without authority, adding that it would be absurd for him to assert any such preference in advance of his annual reports. He said many suggestions had been made to him on the subject of providing security for national banks, some of which he had been considering, but he had arrived at no conclusion.

Will Prepare a List.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The civil service commissioners have notified the heads of the various departments of this city that the commissioners will make an appointment list of persons eligible to appointment among the several states and territories, to be provided by the civil service law in advance of certification of names to the latter for their selection, so that when certification is made to him the head of the department will not be troubled to determine whether or not the quota of a state or territory has been filled before making his appointment.

Washington Notes

The director of the mint authorizes the purchase of 410,000 ounces of fine silver for use by the Philadelphia, New Orleans and San Francisco mints.

Rear Admiral Pierce Crosby, commanding the naval forces at Asiatic stations, telegraphs to the navy department asking to be relieved and placed on the retired list.

D. W. Glassie has been restored to practice as attorney before the interior department.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

ADOPTING THE EASTERN STANDARD TIME

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—At noon Sunday railroads comprising the lines between Boston and Montreal, with the exception of the Boston and Lowell road, which will adopt the system a week later, will begin to run trains on the eastern standard time—that of the 75th meridian. This is sixteen minutes slower than the Boston time, which heretofore has been the standard. It is expected that before the close of October most of the roads in the United States east of Buffalo and in Canada east of Detroit will adopt the same meridian.

ON A TOUR OF INSPECTION

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Fred L. Ames, Ezra Baker and C. F. Adams, Jr., directors of the Union Pacific Railway Company, left Boston yesterday for a tour of inspection of the road. It is probable that the Oregon Short Line, the Utah and Northern and Utah Southern will be inspected, the latter with a view to its extension to Salt Lake and westward to San Francisco.

EFFECT OF JUDGE MILLER'S DECISION

WALL STREET, Oct. 5—11:10 A. M.—A sale of Arkansas, Mississippi and Ohio railroad issue was made this morning at 12, against 42 on Wednesday. The break was caused by the decision of Judge Miller, of the United States supreme court, to the effect that the railroad was not responsible for the bonds issued by the state of Arkansas.

LARGE INTEREST SOLD

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—The reported sale by J. James Hill of his interest in the Manitoba road to the Canada Pacific, as reported by the Tribune's Winnipeg special late last night, turns out to be the sale of Hill's interest to the Manitoba and Southwestern, which will hereafter form a part of the Canada Pacific system.

OREGON SHORT LINE NOTES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Application has been made at the stock exchange for listing $449,000 of the first mortgage bonds of the Oregon Short Line firm.

The Oregon Short Line Company has given notice of an increase of its capital stock from $4,000,000 to $12,000,000.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR

A MURDERER ARRESTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Detectives passed through here last night for Tilden, Texas, with a man named Clabe Young, who is wanted for the murder of a man named O'Donnell in November, 1878. The prisoner was arrested on a ranch 10 miles south of Rawlins on the Union Pacific railroad, where he was living with a Mrs. Oast, having driven the husband of the woman away. It is told of Young that he and his brother carried on a career of brigandage in the southwestern part of Texas for a number of years, robbing stages. The murder of O'Donnell resulted in their being driven from the country by citizens.

WILL INVESTIGATE THE MATTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The commissioner of internal revenue said to-day that the statement recently made in the United States court at Wheeling, W. Va., that an organization known as "Redmen" has for its object the protection of illicit distilleries, and that a United States ganger named Marion Howes was at its head and had been levying tax on the moonshiners, would be investigated by revenue officers. He said he had received no information confirming the statement, but he considered it sufficiently important to be investigated.

A POSTOFFICE BURGLARIZED

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 5.—The postoffice at Oskaloosa was burglarized last night. The safe was blown open and $600 in stamps and $100 in coin and seventeen registered letters taken. The stamps were mostly of the old issue two and one-cent stamps. Three horses were also stolen, but one has since been recovered. The work was evidently all done by professionals.

GUILTY OF MURDER

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Tribune's special from Winnipeg: A telegram from Regina in the northwest country announces that John Stevenson Younger and George Stevenson, half breed Indians, have been found guilty of the murder of an aged squatter near Troy, in June last, and sentenced to be hanged November 28.

ACCIDENTS

TRAIN COLLISION

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 5.—One section of a freight train ran into the caboose of another on the Newark division of the Pan Handle this morning, killing Thomas Cranshaw, a brakeman, and injuring another. The Scioto valley passenger, going out, ran into one box car, damaging the engine, but the crew jumped off, saving their lives.

NOTABLE DEAD

FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE CHICAGO AND ROCK ISLAND

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—Henry A. Williams, who died at New Haven to-day, leaving about $4,000,000, built the Chicago and Rock Island road and was its first president.

The Omnibus

Pall Mall Gazette.

The omnibus is not, as is sometimes supposed, an old institution. The first omnibus, indeed, was built some centuries ago, but it is only since the beginning of the present century that they have become one of the chief means of transport in all cities and large towns. The French, of course, claim the honor of having invented the first omnibus. A recent writer who treats of the history of the omnibus says that only two carriages were known to exist in France, one of which belonged to the queen, and until the end of the reign of Louis XIII carriages were exclusively reserved for the use of high personages. In 1650 the privilege was first granted to an enterprising Frenchman to establish only in the town of Paris large and small conveyances, litters and stretchers, for the conveyance of the public. Not long after this the Duc de Rouen and other notables received patents for the establishment in the suburbs of Paris and elsewhere, of such a number of vehicles as they should find convenient. By and by improvements were made in the new system, but the fares remained too high to allow the petits gens to indulge in the luxury of riding. In revenge they showed their discontent by throwing stones at the omnibuses and the "bloated capitalists" who patronized them, and although for a short time the enterprise flourished, after some years it collapsed. Omnibuses remained virtually extinct for a long time, until the unsuccessful proprietor of a bathing establishment made an attempt to revive them in 1828. He succeeded, and before long had a hundred omnibuses in circulation. Since then this branch of industry has become more and more profitable, and to-day it is the most common, if not the most convenient, means of transport all over the civilized world.

FRANCE'S TROUBLES

General Thibaudin Resigns—More of the Alfonso Difficulty, Etc.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The Figaro and Gaulois both report that the Spanish ambassador yesterday handed to Ferry, the prime minister, and Challemel LaCour, the minister of foreign affairs, a note setting forth the grievances of Spain in connection with the arrival of Alfonso in Paris, and demanding the punishment of the authors of the manifestation against his majesty, and satisfaction for Spain, in proportion to the gravity of the outrage. This note, these papers say, was well received by Ferry and Challemel LaCour. Ferry subsequently held a conference with President Grevy.

Le Republique Française asserts that Grevy has instructed Ferry to request General Thibaudin to resign the portfolio of war. Voltaire expresses the belief that Thibaudin has already resigned.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A Madrid dispatch says Challemel LaCour, French minister of foreign affairs, has advised that the full text of Grevy's apology to Alfonso be officially published, and that the leaders of the demonstration in Paris against the king be punished.

At Saragossa a crowd assembled before the French consulate and began to stone the building, when they were charged by the police and dispersed.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—Iberia declares the official attitude of the cabinet is so precise that the [illegible] of the former Spanish ambassador at Paris had been instructed to leave his post unless the French government makes a more satisfactory declaration concerning the insulting reception of Alfonso in Paris.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A Paris dispatch states that Grevy has accepted Thibaudin's resignation of the war office.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—General Thibaudin, secretary of war, was present at the meeting of the cabinet to-day.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Two Men Killed and Several Injured by a Collision at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—The 11 a. m. train on the north Pennsylvania branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad ran into a street car at Susquehanna avenue and American street this morning. The car was demolished and all the passengers more or less injured. The ten persons who were most severely injured were taken to the Episcopal hospital. A few have since died. The driver of the car was not in the car at the time of the accident. Those who have died are John Hamill and James Taylor. Among the injured was a woman named Mary Selfe, who was terribly mangled. One was carried to a hospital in a cab. She and several others are expected to die.

The names of the dead are as follows: John McKeown, gardener, leaves a wife and seven children; James Hamill, coal dealer. Seven others were badly injured. There was no conductor on the car, and the driver's duty required him to guide his team, see that fares were deposited in the box and at the same time watch for trains at the railroad crossing. The railroad company had no safety gate at the crossing, although they had been directed by the council a year ago to erect one at that place. The driver had stopped his car while the north bound train passed, but had not noticed the approach of the train on the other track. He started the horses, and before the passengers had time to notice, the south bound train, running at the rate of twenty-five miles per hour, struck the car on the side, tearing it to splinters and hurling the passengers, bruised and bleeding, into promiscuous heaps. Ambulances from the Episcopal hospital arrived quickly and most of the sufferers were removed to that institution, while others were taken into neighboring houses and a few of the injured to their homes. It is said by many who watched the accident that a boy was acting as driver while the regular driver was inside of the car.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

The Lord Bishop of Rochester Addresses the Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—The general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States reassembled this morning. The morning prayer was read by Rev. William R. Ashley, D. D., of Wisconsin, and Rev. S. H. Olesy, D. D., of the House of Connecticut. The benediction was pronounced by the Right Rev. Henry Benjamin Whipple, D. D., bishop of Minnesota.

The lord bishop of Rochester, the Right Rev. Dr. Harold, was then introduced and addressed the house, all the deputies remaining standing. He begged most sincerely to return thanks for the kindness and courtesy with which his name had been received. This was not his first visit to this country, and he hoped it would not be the last. He was not so foolish as to hide from himself the fact that this kindness was extended to him as a representative of England and of the church of England. "Let no one persuade you," said the lord bishop, "that England has ceased to love English churchmen. She is proud of the life and activity of her daughter. We in the old country do not feel as if we are in [illegible] of [illegible] to-day yet. The American church is foremost among the religious bodies of what he might truly call a religious land. In less than 100 years sixty-two sees have been created in this country.

In the words of Cardinal Newman, still [illegible] 'Be only be a unit among yourselves and let the [illegible] bishop, and you will be invincible.'"

On motion of Bishop Stephens of Pennsylvania the rules were suspended in order that the bishop of Rochester might present an address from the archbishop of Canterbury. The bishop said the archbishop desired to congratulate the American church on the approach of the centenary of the consecration of the Right Rev. Seabury. The lord bishop paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Tait, archbishop of Canterbury.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—The general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church reassembled this morning.

Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, of New York, presented papers relative to the election of Rev. Dr. H. C. Potter as assistant bishop of New York, and asked that an early day be fixed for his consecration. Referred to committee on Episcopal consecration.

Rev. Dr. Wakefield, of Indiana, offered papers relative to the election of Rev. D. B. Knickerbacker as bishop of Indiana, which was referred to the committee on Episcopal consecration.

A memorial relative to division of the diocese of North Carolina was referred to the committee on dioceses.

The joint committee on lectionary made an order for the day for Wednesday at 12 o'clock. The lectionary as revised by the committee is recommended to the convention that the use of it will tend to the edification of the church. The act referred to is as follows: By the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, the lectionary contained in the book of common prayer is hereby amended by substituting the tables appended for the table of lessons of the holy scriptures, and by inserting after the third paragraph the three rules following: If in any church upon Sunday or a holiday both morning and evening prayer be not said the minister may read the lessons appointed for either morning or for evening prayer. At evening prayer on Sunday the minister may read the lesson from the gospel appointed for that day for the morning in place of the second lesson for the Sunday. Upon any day for which no proper lessons are provided the lessons appointed in the calendar for any day in the same week may be read in place of the lessons for the day.

A committee was appointed to invite the lord bishop of Rochester to a seat by the president, and a resolution was adopted to extend to Bishop [illegible] of [illegible] an invitation to attend the session of the house and occupy a seat at the right of the president.

The secretary read the following cablegram from the church congress in session at Reading, England:

The archbishop of Canterbury and the president of the church congress assembled at Reading send brotherly greeting to the general convention of the American church, for which the congress has prayed this morning.

The president was requested in conjunction with the presiding bishop to return cordial greetings to the church.

Rev. S. C. Thrall, of the diocese of Springfield, offered a resolution that the words "Protestant Episcopal" be dropped from the book of common prayer.

Rev. Dr. Thrall moved that the words "Protestant Episcopal" be omitted from the constitution of the church. Adopted.

Rev. Dr. Thrall moved that the words "Protestant Episcopal" be omitted from the title of [illegible] the committee on canons.

A memorial asking for a change in the time of laying of the testimonials in the case of the admission of candidates for holy orders was referred to the committee on canons.

A resolution was referred to the committee on [illegible] that the house of [illegible] ne[illegible] that [illegible] general [illegible] be substituted and that the constitution [illegible] made to correspond with the [illegible]

A invitation to visit the house of refuge was accepted.

A resolution was referred to the committee on [illegible] with regard to the [illegible] ministers [illegible]

A meeting of the committee on [illegible] having been announced, Malcolm Hay of Pittsburg said he was sorry there was a necessity for a meeting of the committee, as it would only lead to a further debate.

The following was referred to the committee on canons:

Resolved, That no addition be made to article [illegible] 5 except that which the general convention may authorize the tentative use of during the interval from one of its sessions to another.

Adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS

The house of bishops met this morning in the parish building of the church of the Holy Trinity with the Right Rev. Bishop Lee of Delaware in the chair.

The new bishops consecrated since the last general convention were introduced and took their seats. The bishops thus received were missionary bishops of New Mexico, Montana and Washington territory, the bishop of Pittsburg and the assistant bishop of Mississippi.

The lord bishop of Rochester addressed the house.

Standing committees—Admission of New Mexico, the bishops of Rhode Island, Oregon, Northern Texas and Nevada; on dispatch of business, the bishops of Utah, Vermont and Illinois.

SORGHUM SUGAR

The Production of Sugar from Sorghum no Longer in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Professor Richardson, chemist of the agricultural department, has just returned from Rio Grande, N. J., near Cape May City, where he has been visiting the sorghum sugar farm owned by a party of Philadelphia capitalists. The farm was opened as an experiment some four years ago, and the work of sugar making has now passed beyond the experimental stage. The farm now grows nearly 1000 acres of sorghum, which is being manufactured into sugar at the rate of 1000 [illegible] per day. The owners of the farm expect to manufacture about 1,000,000 pounds of sugar this year. The sugar is fine and white, and is put directly on to the retail market instead of being handled by refiners, as is nearly all sugar from the tropics.

The practicability of successfully producing sugar from sorghum, Professor Richardson says, is no longer to be doubted where the circumstances are as favorable as in this case. The Jersey soil at this particular point is just of the proper formation, and the projectors of the enterprise have made it a great success. They are feeding the seed of the amber to several hundred hogs and expect to produce a million pounds of sugar and thirty thousand dollars worth of pork annually. The department is very much encouraged with the result of this and other experiments in that line.

A letter recently received from Kansas indicates that the growth of sorghum sugar there this year will amount to nearly two million pounds, though Professor Dodge says frankly that his statement so far exceeds his expectations that he fears the amount mentioned may be the result of an error in calculations or in statements. The value of the sorghum crop of the country he estimates at upwards of fifteen millions of dollars. He is further encouraged as to the future of sorghum and hopes that it may eventually furnish the sugar of this country, for which nearly one hundred million dollars now go abroad.

Appearance of a Tornado

As the tornado now sweeps onward in its career it rises and falls with a series of bounds and with a swaying motion describes a zigzag course, now forming a chain of loops and again shooting off on an oblique angle, varying in the speed of its onward motion, which may be anywhere from ten to thirty miles an hour. At the same time it is rapidly whirling on its axis in the opposite direction from a screw or the hands of a clock, the air revolving around the vortex necessarily attaining a speed of several hundred miles an hour. First widening, then contracting, now whirling above the tree-tops and again descending to sweep the earth bare of every object within its reach, the aerial monster surges onward. The largest forest trees are mere playthings in its grasp, and are plucked up by the roots or snapped off. The ponderous substantial buildings are lifted and crushed like egg shells, then caught up in the vortex and the joints carried sometimes for a mile before it is thrown off by centrifugal force and falls by gravity to anywhere everywhere, as soon as it has escaped from the monster's grasp.

It is difficult accurately to describe the tornado as it is seen and known even to those who have witnessed it, or who have personally passed through the horrors its coming has brought. While men may differ as to its appearance, and believe it is [illegible] different circumstances, all substantially agree that it is funnel shaped, its motion rotary, that its apex resembles the [illegible] and that heavy lightning and heavy rainfall usually accompany it. In rare instances electricity in the form of St. Elmo's fire will produce the [illegible] and white [illegible] of the tornado cloud is [illegible] by the proof plane used in teaching natural philosophy. The small end of the plane is most heavily charged with electricity, and the nearer it approaches to a perfect point the greater will be the accumulation, a high tension is gained and the electricity must escape by some conductor. So in the tornado cloud the smaller the point of stem the greater the force exerted when it meets the earth.

A Real Estate Boom

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The Advertiser real estate authority says: It is a self evident fact that the coast generally is enjoying a solid and healthy revival in real estate business. The improvement has been mainly in productive lands, the movement of which is gradual and steady, and may be attributed to the growing prosperity of our farmers, orchardists and vineyardists, to the great reduction in rates of interest from 10 and 12 per cent to 6 and 8 per cent, to the spreading of the light of information as to the advantages of our climate, soil and productions, [illegible] the fact that our [illegible] realize that investments in land are much safer and more profitable than other operations.

Territorial library—Power, Harper, Hale.
Mining—Harper, Collins, Houghton.
Rules and order—Kerr, Edmiston, Houghton.

Burke presented a memorial praying for an appropriation to clear Lewis river. Referred.

Smith introduced a joint resolution to appoint a committee on the adjustment of mileage of members.

Council joint resolution No. 3, in relation to territorial incidental printing, was read three times and passed.

Committee on rules and order reported in favor of the rules adopted at last session, with a few amendments, and the report was adopted.

HOUSE

Kuhn introduced an act to repeal certain sections of the code known as the Sunday law. Referred to judiciary committee.

Clarke introduced an act to establish the county seat of Garfield county at Pomeroy. Same committee.

Shaw introduced an act to incorporate the city of Vancouver. Referred to committee on corporations with instructions to print.

H. J. resolution appointing a joint committee to ascertain the cost of incidental printing. Adopted.

The house then went into committee of the whole, with Mr. Kuhn in the chair, to consider the insane hospital report. After a very short session the committee arose and reported progress and asked for further time to complete their deliberations.

C. J. resolution relative to appointment of a joint committee on the subject of mileage was taken up and adopted, and Messrs. Sutton, Shoudy and Kuhn were appointed on said committee.

As there was but little business of importance before either house, an adjournment took place till 10 A. M. to-morrow.

THE RURAL MASSES IN CHINA.

Hopeless Poverty—Early Marriages—Joint Family System

A family, C. D., consisting of eight persons, owns an acre and a half of land. The land was bought by the grandfather of the present head and has never been subdivided since nor added to. He grows about seventy bushels of rice and thirty-five of wheat and some vegetables and cotton besides, worth altogether in money about $50. He has two nephews who work outside and bring home something to help, and in that way they get along, but they are very poor. He pays government land tax to the extent of $1.80 a year. He and all his neighbors wore native cloth, spun and woven in the family by the women from cotton grown by themselves. He never wore foreign cotton. The coat he had on (a very worn affair) had been made two years previously, and it would last two years more. It served him at night as a cover let as well as a coat by day.

Another family owned four acres, odd, only part of which was suitable for rice culture. Their income was about 80 bushels of wheat and 150 of rice, about a fourth of which they could usually sell. They paid something over $3 a year as government land tax. They also grew more cotton than they could use and sold every year about $10 worth. They were better off than some of their neighbors, but never saved any money. They had fifteen mouths to feed.

The foregoing cases are given because they represent fairly the average condition to be found in rural China. The greater number of cultivators probably tell [illegible] the class of tenants. Some say the proportion of tenants to peasant proprietors is as seven to three, others put it as three to two, but whether tenant or proprietor the condition of the cultivator is much the same. But he is rarely raised above what is just enough for the bare necessaries of life. My own observations have been mostly confined to this and the adjoining provinces, and I include the cultivators of the silk and cotton who, growing a commodity more and more in demand and easily transportable, are in a far better position than the ordinary peasant. But speaking for the greater part of China, I believe I am not overstating the case in saying that for the working agricultural masses it is a daily hand to hand struggle with want. In a succession of good years they are very comfortable; they have enough to eat and wear and they have few other wants. But population is ever increasing up to the food limit, and when a bad year or two come they die off by hundreds of thousands.

Two or three causes may readily be named as having mainly conduced to this state of things—causes which are generally to be found among oriental races. The rules prohibiting the devolution of property by will and making division compulsory among all male children tend rapidly to reduce all holdings to a minimum—that is, to the very lowest quantity out of which it is possible to make a living. Here as everywhere else energy and good luck raise individuals to a position of wealth, who may, if they chose, become large landowners, but in the course of a few generations the universal equalizer aided by the apathy of the ordinary Chinese, when in comfortable circumstances, will have reduced things to the former dead level. Another equally potent factor is the habit of too early marriages. Parents deem it a religious duty to provide matches for their children as soon as they are of marriageable years, and the young people go to the altar in much the same way as they go to school in Europe. It never occurs to them to ask first whether they have the means to marry, or whether there will be enough to fill the mouths that may come afterward. The evil is further aggravated by the joint family system, which takes the responsibility off one's own shoulders and puts it to rely on that of half a dozen others. When a man knows that he will get an equal share of what is going, whether he earns it or no, and that the benefit of his denying himself any particular indulgence will accrue to others as well as to himself, a great motive for thrift is withdrawn.

In one respect the Chinese peasant is in a better position than the Indian ryot. He is not in debt to any money lenders. But I do not know that that is a virtue for which he is entitled to much credit, for there is no class of money lenders to whom he could get in debt. Indeed I am not sure that he is not thereby in a less advantageous position, for when hard years come he has no means of pledging his property, which, if he could, might save him from sheer starvation.

It is a melancholy thought, but it seems inevitable both in the case of the Chinese and Indian peasant, that the great bulk should necessarily be in a state of constant poverty. The food production is limited and the growth of the population unlimited. A good and stable government may remove many natural checks on the latter, with the object of improving the condition of the people, but it is doubtful if that is any real kindness. It only postpones the inevitable and drives them on to another check all the more terrible because delayed. Emigration and self restraint, the only true remedies, are hopeless in dealing with ignorant populations counted by hundreds of millions.—Cor. London Times.

Denced Absent-Minded

Newport Correspondent Boston Transcript

One of our Newport swells tells this story of himself. It is his pet story. It impresses different listeners differently. Sometimes I think it doesn't impress them exactly as he expects it to, but it is his way of informing the world that he dressed for the evening religiously. I'll try to put it in his own words: "I'm deuced absent minded, don't you know? Deuced absent minded. Did something the other evening just like me, don't you know? Valet was knocked up. Lighted the gas myself when I got up, deuced stubborn mustache mine,—have to curl it on an iron—lighted gas to heat iron and forgot to put it out. Of course a fellow don't put on his morning clothes by gas light and I got into my evening suit. By Jove! opened the front door and found in evening dress in broad daylight. Haven't got over it yet. Gad! upset me entirely. Felt like a waiter or a fool. Deuced absent minded, I am, don't you know?"

What motive actuates the policeman who is prosecuting him in thus starting such a malicious falsehood is difficult to divine. Certainly it is not desire for justice.

Reflecting on Northern Civilization

Out of nine acts of violence of a [illegible] character reported in the New York World the 2nd, seven were committed in northern states and two in southern commonwealths—that is, if you class Missouri as belonging to the south. SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 6, 1883.

THE CHIEF CAUSE OF POVERTY.

The statements of Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, recently delivered before the committee of congress on education and labor, were valuable enough to justify the attention paid to them by the associated press, which telegraphed them to all parts of the country. The only way, said Mr. Medill, to improve the condition of the laboring classes is to teach them to earn. The power of wasting is at present much greater than the power of earning. Too much of the earnings of the laborer are spent in liquor or tobacco. Mr. Medill had never heard of any workman who spent his earnings in this way who ever made any progress. It has been calculated that the amount annually spent by the laboring population in drink was $400,000,000, and at least $200,000,000 more was spent in cigars and tobacco and in useless amusement. This sum would have provided every laborer in the country with a home, and the interest on this sum would pay all the rents annually of the wage workers. High license would do much toward lessening the evil. Mr. Medill said that he had very little faith in political prohibition.

In presenting the subject from the point of view occupied by Mr. Medill it was hardly necessary to raise an issue between high license and prohibition; for whether the one or the other may be made the more effective in checking the consumption of liquors and diminishing the evils of the traffic must depend largely on the conditions that belong to each particular community. High license may be the more effective for one and prohibition for another. The capital fact is that a vast army of workmen in every community, by the habit of drink, keep themselves poor and entail upon their children a life of penury and wretchedness. It is a common fashion to talk of the oppression of the poor by the rich; to denounce employers for not paying wages enough, and to preach homilies upon the hard fate of the workingman who does not receive good value for his labor; but the fact is that most of the multitude who complain loudest of the hardships of poverty keep themselves poor by their own expensive and injurious habits. In other words, they waste in vicious ways, chiefly upon liquors and tobacco, money that would fully provide homes and plenty for themselves, and education and patrimony for their children. Mr. Medill's estimate of six hundred millions a year, squandered in drink and tobacco mainly by the working classes, is probably not an extravagant one, prodigious as it is. The saloon is the arch enemy of the home. Likewise it is the enemy of accumulation. It dwarfs and destroys the account in the savings bank.

License—high license—and prohibition itself, may be well enough in their way; but working people must depend mainly on themselves for emancipation from habits and vices that keep them poor. They support the distiller, the brewer, the saloonkeeper, in ease and often in luxury. How many who make or deal in liquors have acquired great fortunes? How many are acquiring fortunes, great or small, every year? Four-fifths of the money which feeds this affluence and pampers this prosperity is contributed by the working classes. Men like "Dick" Gerdes, "Bill" Andrus, "Frank" Harrington, "Joe" Taylor and the whole gang who constitute the free whisky rings in this and other cities, get their living mainly out of the hard earnings of workingmen who are such fools as to keep themselves poor and pinch their children in order that the liquor seller may wax fat and swell with insolence. It certainly is time working people were enacting some legislation, each for himself, on this important question.

Furthermore, as the Minneapolis Tribune justly points out, the annihilation of the surplus earning is not the whole of the case against liquor and tobacco as an element in the labor question. The physical deterioration and loss of earning capacity resulting from these useless indulgences may be set down at no less than another sum of six hundred millions. All this is entirely apart from the fearful train of moral consequences which results from liquor. Reference is here made to the direct financial loss by the laboring classes every year of a sum almost equal to our national debt, in consequence of indulgences that bring no recompense but misery. Science can do much for the laboring classes; but, after all, in this country, the chief obstacle to prosperity is the lack of individual character. Every man must, in the ultimate analysis, bear his own burden and work out his own salvation. Undue indulgence in the "flowing bowl" and in the "filthy weed" grinds the workingman a hundred times harder than the much abused "money-power," and the execrated "corporate monopolies."

THE PROPOSED NO-FENCE LAW.

If the papers of Washington territory fairly express public sentiment, there is wide difference of opinion in respect to the herd or no-fence law which it is proposed to introduce into the legislature. Some of the local papers clamor for such a law, while others vigorously object to it, the protests, of course, coming from the cattle-raising sections. A no-fence law, covering the whole territory, would, probably, work some hardship to the stock interest, but we believe that the "greatest good to the greatest number" demands it. It is not too much to say that the expense of building and maintaining fences in the territory is greater than the whole income from the sale of stock. Many localities in the eastern part of the territory are remote from timber. To properly fence a farm in those districts is a work of great trouble and expense; indeed, to the average new-comer, a work quite impossible. Agriculture, which is really the first interest of the country, is under an enormous tax for the benefit of the stock interest, which is subordinate and comparatively unimportant. And in taxing agriculture every material interest of the territory suffers. So great is this tax in some parts of Whitman county, for example, that 20 per cent of the cost of producing wheat is chargeable to it. At best stock raising as carried on in eastern Washington is but a temporary business. It cannot long stand before the march of immigration, and it should not be allowed to hinder its progress. Besides, the stock business does little to build up the country. It can thrive only on wide, vacant tracts, and its effort is always to keep out settlers. And it may be doubted if the production of the stock in the territory would be lessened by a law so greatly to the advantage of agriculture. The Colfax Gazette, which takes ground in favor of the proposed law, suggests a compromise which is at least worthy of consideration. It says: "The legislature should pass during the present session an enabling act, giving Whitman county the power to pass a herd law of its own. We are of the opinion that this is the only way in which all concerned could be suited. If the Walla Walla people desire a herd law, let them instruct their representatives to that effect, and in this way all may be satisfied. It is true that two years ago Whitman county voted on this question and the herd law was defeated; but the population of the principal wheat growing and farming section has nearly doubled since that time, lumber is a great deal higher in price than it was at that time, and there are various other reasons why the herd law should take effect." It is to be feared that great difficulty would be encountered if such an adjustment were made near the divisions of counties. For example: if Whitman county has a no-fence law and its neighbor Spokane county has none, what recourse has the Whitman county farmer who lives near the dividing line, if his Spokane neighbor's cattle damage his fields? We fear that an adjustment by counties would prove unsatisfactory for this reason.

THE LOUISVILLE CONVENTION.

The convention of colored people, which has just closed a session of several days at Louisville, issued an address in which they complain that many of the laws intended to secure their rights as citizens are nothing more than dead letters. "In the southern states, almost without exception, they say, colored people are denied justice in the courts, denied the fruit of their honest labor, defrauded of their political rights at the ballot-box, shut out from learning trades, cheated out of their civil rights by innkeepers and common carrier companies, and left by the states to an inadequate opportunity for education and general improvement." They have had enough of class legislation, and do not recommend any very important specific remedies for the evils of which they complain. One of their prominent leaders seemed to think that it would be a great help to the race if one of their number, whose name modesty forbade his mentioning, should be elected vice president of the United States. But since he has held a prominent and lucrative office in Washington without benefit to the race as a whole, it is not easy to see how his suggestion, if adopted, would be of much avail.

But this convention is significant of one thing, which it is important to notice. The colored people are in a state of unrest, and groping, it may be very blindly, after some method of relief. Such a movement cannot wisely be ignored. We do not realize without reflection what a movement of seven million people—twice the number of people in this country when we waged war for freedom with Great Britain—who are reminded every day by the facts of their daily life that they occupy an inferior position, and esteemed only fit to perform servile work, may culminate in, if it continues, as it will, unless the occasion for it is removed.

Great popular movements, as a rule, surprise the observer by their calmness, though they sometimes are insanely fierce. It is evident that the colored people are becoming conscious of their growing power. They now cast over a million of votes and have more than a million of men capable of bearing arms. They are increasing at the rate of more than 35 per cent. every ten years, while the whites, with all the aid of immigration, only increase at the rate of 29 per cent. No one of the so-called inferior races shows such amazing vitality. At their present rate of increase they will gain one million more souls within the next twenty years than the same number of whites would gain. Their present number, seven millions, is an enormous factor in a nation of fifty millions. If they had a proportionate representation in congress there would be forty colored members, while now there is only one. There are five or six states where, with the white republicans, they are in the majority, but, as they say in their Louisville address, they are defrauded out of their political rights.

They have no less substantial ground for complaint of a lack of adequate opportunities for education and general improvement. While common schools have grown to be in favor in the south, illiteracy has grown still faster. There were many thousand more illiterate blacks in 1880 than in 1870. Georgia alone has 16,000 more illiterates now than it had ten years ago. Many of these colored people are feeling these disadvantages most keenly. In competition with whites at school, they have found themselves not much inferior, but when they come into competition on leaving school, they find themselves hampered because of their color. Those who are conscious of ability to rise and have ambition, are continually forced back into their lower position.

No student of history can view such a state of things without apprehension. Seven millions of people are not going to be forever kept down. The people of the southern states are making the same mistake now that they made in slavery, in adopting "a system of social and civil distinctions, possessing all the enormities and none of the advantages of those systems which Europe is learning to despise." In the "Grandissimes," George W. Cable shows how at the beginning of this century, when the scenes of that remarkable book were drawn, the shadow of the Ethiopian is the Nemesis which, instead of coming after, glides along by the side of the moral, social, political and commercial mistake which the southern people were then making, how it blanched their whole civilization and dragged them a century behind the world, retarding and poisoning every industry most of all their immense agriculture. One of his characters, Frowenfeld, said, breaking a contemplative pause, "Yes, the climate is too comfortable and the soil too rich, though I do not think it is entirely on their account that the people, who enjoy them, are so sadly in arrears to the civilized world. It is largely owing to a defective organization of society, which keeps this community, and will keep it for an indefinite time to come, entirely unprepared and disinclined to follow the course of modern thought. One great general subject of thought now is human rights—universal human rights. The entire literature of the world is becoming tinctured with contradictions of the dogmas upon which human society in this section is built. Human rights is, of all subjects, the one upon which this community is most violently determined to have no discussion. It has pronounced that slavery and caste are right, and sealed up the whole subject. What, then, will they do with the world's literature? They will coldly decline to look at it, and will become more and more, as the world moves on, a comparatively illiterate people."

That prediction has been fulfilled. And it is amazing that the blindness of the southern people should still continue, that they should not yet realize that human rights is the subject upon which the most earnest thinking of the world is expended, that enfranchisement, the abolition of caste and exclusive privilege are now more generally than ever in the minds of men in Russia, Spain, Germany, England and Ireland, and that they stand in their own light by refusing their former slaves the full achievement of their emancipation, which is little more than mockery as it exists before the law, until it exists in the minds and good will of the entire community, to which point it must come at last, for,

Right is right, since God is God,
And right the day must win.

THE "POOL" ARRANGEMENT.

San Francisco journals are still discussing the railroad agreement and speculating upon its effect on the trade of that city. The result, viewed from a Portland standpoint, cannot but be advantageous to the Northern Pacific and its connecting lines, and incidentally to Portland and the northwest. By the new arrangement San Francisco merchants will gradually lose the sale of eastern goods in Oregon and the adjacent territories; but there are products of California with which the east cannot compete, and which no doubt will find a steady and extending market in this direction. The rate from the east to Portland and to San Francisco by all the routes is to be the same; but the Northern Pacific alone controls steamships, and such freight as the California roads have for the north will be carried in these vessels—which will increase the earnings of the Northern Pacific combination. Again, freight for San Francisco via the Northern Pacific will be carried in these same steamers from Portland; and thus our lines will secure a share, no matter which way freight gets into Oregon. Canned salmon may, indeed, go from Astoria via San Francisco at the same rate as via the Northern Pacific; but even in this exceptional case the freight must go by the Oregon steamers to San Francisco. Puget sound business, via San Francisco, is to be on the same basis as traffic to or through Portland. The steamers give the Northern line a special advantage, and will enable it to take eastern freight for San Francisco at the common rate, because those steamers, going regularly from Portland, will be able to carry at the bare cost of handling here. The basis of the arrangement, however, is practical restriction of the several transcontinental roads to their own territories. As to passenger fares we do not doubt that a lower first-class rate to and from the east will soon be made by all the roads.

CLAIMS ON THE GOVERNMENT.

In his message to the territorial legislature, Governor Newell very properly calls attention to the need of light houses, life saving stations, etc., on the coast or on Puget sound, and to the fact that many navigable streams are so obstructed by snags and drifts as to be of no use as highways. A light house is much needed at Peterson's point, near entrance to Gray's harbor, and beacons are needed at various points on the Sound, while life saving stations are needed at Gray's harbor and Loomis' beach. The government has been very niggardly in its expenditures for public works in Washington territory. Even after a small appropriation was made last year for the Chehalis, Cowlitz and other rivers, it was arbitrarily withheld by the secretary of war. The cost of clearing the various small rivers of the territory of obstructions which for most part consist of jams, would be very light while free, open waterways would be a great blessing to the country. It is impossible to build roads in many parts of the country about the Sound, but even if roads were built, water transportation would be more expeditious and much cheaper. It is manifestly the duty of the general government to clear the rivers, and we believe that proper representation will secure proper appropriations. Our Oregon representatives at Washington ought, in the spirit of good neighborship, to lend to the delegate from the territory a helping hand in this matter. We hope to see greater liberality on the part of the government toward Washington territory in the future. Her advancing importance demands it.

It is a fact not generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless, that Georgia and Mississippi are the strictest temperance states in the union. A gentleman, who has spent several months in those states, said recently in an eastern journal: "There are eighty-seven counties in Georgia where a man cannot buy, beg or steal a drink of whisky, and none can be purchased in the state excepting in some of the larger towns. The people are fanatical on the subject, and in Mississippi they have gone to such an extreme that they tax billiard tables $1000 apiece, under the belief that they are a device for the encouragement of drinking. There are only a few foreign born citizens in the state, and the native American voters enact laws satisfactory to themselves."

The New York Sun asserts that the only means of ever arriving at a revenue tariff is first to abolish all internal revenue imposts. "Then, our statesmen, deprived of the means which are now furnished from whisky, tobacco and beer, will be obliged to construct the tariff so as to produce all that is necessary to pay the interest and the debt and keep the machinery of the government running." A very nice scheme, indeed, but why should not whisky, tobacco and beer help to pay the taxes as well as the clothes the poor man wears and the plate from which he eats his frugal meal? The protectionists, to a man, would doubtless support the Sun's plan but how about the people who have the taxes to pay?

An Interview With Villard.

Special to the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Henry Villard, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, was at his office on Wednesday, having just returned.

"While you were opening the road the prices of your stocks have declined heavily," a reporter remarked.

"Did you know," Mr. Villard replied, "that I heard nothing about it until I was nearly home? I did not receive a letter or a dispatch from New York all the time I was away, and for five days I was completely out of the reach of the telegraph; but Wall street doesn't trouble me any. I am not affected by it in the least, but pursue calmly the even tenor of my way. You may say that I am in the best of spirits and have no fears for the Northern Pacific."

"It has been rumored in the street that the Oregon Transcontinental Company had been selling its Northern Pacific stock."

"Don't receive those foolish Wall street stories. The company has not sold a single share of stock, but on the contrary holds more to-day than ever before. There is no reason why it should sell them, for it bought them to keep control of the property. Yes, I know of these stories about share certificates in my name. If I were selling the stocks wouldn't the certificates appear in some other name? Why, that is the commonest operation by which to conceal a speculation. I have something more to do than to sign certificates of stocks. I do not think there are any out that have been signed by me within the last two years."

"It was said yesterday that you and Mr. Gould had been seen together?"

"I have not seen Mr. Gould for years. I saw somewhere a statement made by him that he had never bought or sold a share of our stock. I believe it, too. I really do not think that he has speculated in the Northern Pacific stocks at all. There have been a great many rumors about it, but then there has been no foundation for them as far as I know."

"How do you propose to fund the Northern Pacific floating debt?"

"The Northern Pacific

HAS NO FLOATING DEBT,"

Mr. Villard answered with much earnestness. "It has been paid by the Oregon & Transcontinental Company. We could not issue second mortgage bonds without getting the consent of our stockholders. When you see a special meeting called for that purpose then you can inquire about the bonds. No, we do not contemplate anything of the kind. We have not even discussed it. There is no need of any new issue of bonds, because there is no floating debt. The Oregon Transcontinental holds a satisfactory obligation of the Northern Pacific railroad, as in business a merchant may borrow money on his note. I consider every obligation of the Northern Pacific as good as gold. The road will earn at least $15,000,000 next year. I have the greatest confidence in it."

In regard to the agreement about through rates, which was made at the railroad conference at San Francisco, Mr. Villard said:

"It was our own offer to arrange rates on that basis, and of course I am pleased that it should be adjusted. There will be nothing but peace and harmony between the Pacific railroads. Rates from the east will be alike to Portland and San Francisco, but the water transportation from Portland to San Francisco will cost almost nothing. We own our own vessels, and eighty cents a ton doesn't cut much of a figure on freight that pays us $40 a ton. The agreement is perfectly satisfactory to the Northern Pacific line."

The New York Newspaper War.

Milwaukee Wisconsin.

The reduction of the price of the New York Times has compelled the Herald to come down to two cents. That reduction will take off $1000 per day from the income of the Herald, so the Herald property will not be so valuable as it has been heretofore. The Sun has not yet determined its course. Having been for the past twelve years the only first-class two-cent newspaper in New York city, it has made a mint of money. On its original capital stock of $200,000 it has divided 5 per cent. per month.

But the days of those fat profits are gone forever, and Mr. Dana will not feel so strong or so saucy. The Times has cut the ground from under his feet, and gives a better and larger paper for two cents. It has also cut largely into the circulation of the Sun, and unless the Sun enlarges or reduces its price, it cannot maintain its position.

There are curious revolutions in the wheel of fortune. One year ago the Sun was considered to be the best paying newspaper property in the United States, and its proprietors have felt very much like monopolists as they thought they had covered the two-cent field in New York.

But they will now have to struggle hard for a prosperous existence. It was not deemed among the possibilities that the "conservative Jones" of the Times would at one stroke dig under their very foundations. But Jones has money, pluck and obstinacy, he will give the democratic Sun such a turn as it never before experienced. Jones dislikes Dana as an apostate from the republican party, and it would now seem as though he intended to punish Dana for all the intensely sharp and bitter things which the latter has said and written of the republican party since he deserted the Tribune.

The Portland Scandal.

Tacoma Ledger.

Our neighboring city of Portland is enjoying the luxury of the Chapman-Hess[?] scandal "to the top of its bent." Not only are the papers giving it daily attention, but the pulpit has also taken it up and deduced from it a familiar lesson. This is one of the luxurious prerogatives of a city, to have a grand municipal sensation and to have the ministers follow zealously in the wake of the newspapers and improve the occasion. Fresh interest has been added to the publication of the corrupt stipulation between Chapman and Hess by Mr. Mayor Chapman's letter in self defense to the Sunday Mercury. This letter is a singular performance and shows Chapman to be devoid of any fine sense of propriety, much less of honor. * * "He submits his acts to a generous and confiding public." The Portland public needs to be very generous and confiding indeed to forgive such baseness as Chapman's or to believe in the innocence of intention which he professes. He has not shown even the low species of honor which is said to prevail among thieves.

A Woman's Gloves.

Boston Gazette.

A critical observer makes the sensible remark "A woman's glove is to her what a vest is to a man." Precisely. When a man is agitated or perplexed he at once attacks his vest buttons, thus giving occasion for a certain very expressive slang phrase. A woman's vest does not admit of this sort of "pulling down," but her glove is always a source of inspiration and a relief from any embarrassment. She smooths out the fingers, rearranges the buttons, drags out wrinkles, looks critically at the fit and does a dozen little things with her glove that betray or allay nervousness and quite sustain the truth of the above quotation.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

The hall in which Butler was renominated was draped with mourning. Was this designed as a delicate compliment to his fellow-citizen Butler, who is unfortunately to enjoy a monopoly, fully protected, of the butting business?

Andrew Carnegie has returned to Pittsburg, accompanied by Lord and Lady Rosebery. He will not run for parliament and keeps good his offer of $250,000 for a public library in Pittsburg, if the city will raise the same amount.

Watterson thus crows in [illegible] iron into the soul of Dana: "Brother Dana's Holman boom hangs fire. In our opinion, a Dana boom would be more spontaneous. Why don't you speak for yourself, Charles, or words to that effect."

President Lushenbach's executors talk of suing the Boston Herald for the statement that his marriage engagement was broken off by the discovery that he sustained intimate relations with a notorious woman who recently died in Philadelphia.

The New York Herald takes exception to Senator Hill's "Gold and Silver" article in the North American Review, because, as that journal states it, "unfortunately, Senator Hill insisted upon the policy of calling eighty four cents of silver one dollar."

The New York Sun's latest is to monitor as follows, to call off the dogs that are fighting in the democratic camp: "Their democratic free traders and protectionists are fighting over the way the government should be administered, and if they don't stop the civil government they'll have to stand."

There will be 325 members in the next house of representatives, instead of the 293 of the last house. The eastern states have the 35 they had in the last house; the western states have 108 instead of 92; the southern states have 121 instead of 106. The democrats will have a majority of 61, or twice the number of new members. There will be 191 democrats in all. The east sends 42, the west 51, and the south 101.

There is a real local flavor to the following from the Mobile Register, which will serve to show the sort of a Jordan Butler will have to travel should he become the candidate for president in '84: "Take Ben Butler—Beast Butler—as a democratic candidate! Nominate the spoon thief, the tyrant of New Orleans, the ogre whose [illegible] breath cast the deadly insult on southern womanhood! The grand old democratic party nominate this man? By the memory of the sacred cause in which our noblest and bravest gave up their lives, by the hopes dear to every southern heart, by the names of Lee and Jackson, and by our love of the bonnie blue banner they bore, we say, never! Never! NEVER!"

RAILROAD POINTS.

A St. Paul paper of the 25th ult., says: The Northern Pacific is now opened for business to San Francisco, and on Monday next will commence receiving freight either from or to that point. The rates will be the same as those of either the Central or Union Pacific roads.

W. P. Clough, of St. Paul, attorney for the Northern Pacific, who is supposed to speak with authority, from his close relations with Villard, says: This downward movement in the Northern Pacific is entirely without legitimate cause or reason. It is but simply the work of conspirators in Wall street directed at Villard and his associates, who hold Northern Pacific stock, with the view of breaking up the combination, and has no other cause whatever.

The anonymous reports of dissatisfaction with President Villard on the part of leading Northern Pacific shareholders, says the Minneapolis Tribune, are groundless, a lame device of the defeated wreckers of Wall street. "The Villard management has the full confidence of a majority and the bulk of the company's stockholders. The management has certainly hastened the completion of the main line, branches have been built, and their maintenance transferred to the Northern Pacific Company; terminal grounds have been purchased with a wise provision of future as well as present needs. To all this the Northern Pacific directors must plead guilty, but if this be disloyalty to the great trust confided to them, it would be difficult to imagine what loyalty would be."

WHAT IS IT?

CANDLE FISH, or OOLACHAN is a species of fish similar to smelt. It has a rich, delicious flavor, and all who try it pronounce it superior to the sardine. It is smoked and cured and packed in hermetically sealed cans. Although a novelty, it has met with large sales. All who have not tasted Candle Fish should do so at once.

Before reachin[illegible] obliged to kill his horse, mak[illegible] the skin, use some of the flesh for food [illegible] on foot. Mr. Ebberts told a[illegible] a few days since that he wa[illegible] when a boy he shot a cow [illegible] because ordered to do so by his [illegible] the animal was destroying [illegible] him, and would probably have [illegible] not, his mother paid $100 [illegible] after he was called 'Squire,' [illegible] here with Whitman in 1836, and if [illegible] mistaken in his dates he is enti[illegible] honor of being the earliest pioneer of [illegible]

[illegible] Y. M. C. A.—The second of a series [illegible] entertainments for young men was given [illegible] a fine audience that filled the reading [illegible] to overflowing. The following [illegible]: Piano solo—E. W. Hoyt. Song—[illegible]," E. F. Dolger. Recitation—[illegible] to France, J. Rush Bronson. Song—[illegible] Howell. Twenty minutes intermis[illegible] social conversation. Piano solo—E. F. Do[illegible] accompanied by Mr. Hoyt—"Darling, [illegible] Jackson. Recitation—"Rum's maniac," [illegible] Bronson. Song—"Relieve me of all those [illegible]" E. F. Dolger. "Nearer my God to thee," by [illegible]. In response to an encore Mr. Howell [illegible] Gemma in fine style. Pro[illegible] encore, gave "The Mountaineer." The [illegible] programme was given by the different artists [illegible] manner and was greatly enjoyed by all [illegible] the close of the entertainment H. J. [illegible] general secretary of the San Francisco [illegible] introduced and accorded a hearty [illegible]. Before breaking up, all present were in[illegible] to the distinguished guest of the associa[illegible].

[illegible]—The British iron ship Kapunda is [illegible] wharf, where she will discharge [illegible] cargo. She is a fine specimen of what [illegible] accomplished by master workmen in the way [illegible] shipbuilding. For graceful lines and elegant fi[illegible] is not excelled by any foreign vessel ever at [illegible]. Having been built for the Melbourne [illegible] are roomy and elegant, and Captain [illegible] evidently delights in having his surround[illegible]. She has a good record of speed, her [illegible] considered in advance at the time [illegible]. She sailed from Plymouth April 29 for [illegible] Maryboro, Australia, and reached the [illegible] in a passage of eighty-four days. There [illegible] discharged half her freight and sailed for this [illegible]. The passage from Maryboro was made in [illegible] days, which is seldom equaled by vessels [illegible] the more northern ports of Australia. She is [illegible] and is owned by Trinder, Anderson [illegible] of London, who own several other fine [illegible]. She comes to Meyer, Wilson & Company, [illegible] chartered her two months ago for grain load[illegible].

[illegible]—Yesterday the grand jury [illegible] a true bill in the case of E. S. Calk[illegible] charged with incest, and the latter, together [illegible] his daughter, who was held as a witness [illegible] also released from the jail. The case [illegible] remarkable one. Calkins is a man on [illegible] downward grade of life, and was arrested for [illegible] heinous of crimes, his own daughter [illegible] the complaint. When the case came up for [illegible] the girl refused to repeat the charge [illegible] formerly made against her father, and [illegible] maintained the same obdurate silence before [illegible] grand jury, consequently the above action was [illegible] thing that could be done. The girl is about [illegible] a mother, and whether she at first told the [illegible] or lied to cover her own shame, it is a very [illegible] state of affairs in the home of this family [illegible] such a thing possible in this enlight[illegible] nineteenth century.

[illegible] PROCEEDINGS.—Herbert Daley, while in a [illegible] state of intoxication last night, fell several [illegible] the muddy streets. Not liking his sleeping [illegible] in the gutter he staggered up to Mrs. Bars[illegible] lodging house, on Washington street, between [illegible] and Fourth. After mounting up to the third [illegible] he entered a room, and without disrobing he [illegible] himself, muddy clothes and all, between [illegible] sheets. He sank into a cool, refreshing [illegible], but after several hours had elapsed he was [illegible] by the gentleman who occupies the room. [illegible] in the house were aroused and police[illegible] was summoned, who took Daley to the [illegible] jail, where he was locked up. The prisoner [illegible] a short time ago on a charge of begging [illegible] streets. He will doubtless be provided with [illegible] at the city's expense for some nights.

[illegible] a Horse.—About 2 o'clock yesterday [illegible] the sound of two pistol shots fired in rapid [illegible] attracted a large crowd of people to the [illegible] of Second and Oak streets. The shots were [illegible] by policeman Henline, who was trying to [illegible] belonging to the U. O. & S. T. Co. The [illegible] had been incurably injured in a runaway and [illegible] was determined upon to put him out of his [illegible]. Several citizens who had not the greatest [illegible] in the officer's accuracy of aim sought the [illegible] of the city jail until the firing was over. [illegible] inmates in the large cell were aroused [illegible] slumber by the shooting, and several [illegible] came running up from the lower end of [illegible] with drawn revolvers, thinking that a [illegible] murder had been committed. The car[illegible] of the horse was removed this morning.

[illegible] New Offices.—The office of Frank [illegible] superintendent of the sound and river di[illegible] of the O. R. & N. Co., in the new building on [illegible] street dock is being fitted up in good style. [illegible] and substantial railing of ash separates [illegible] portion of the main room occupied by the desks [illegible] from that part allotted to callers on [illegible]. The latter portion is furnished with [illegible] settees and the walls adorned with a [illegible] chart of the Columbia river. Mr Dodge's pri[illegible] is handsomely furnished and the windows [illegible] view of the river for a long distance, en[illegible] the occupant to have under supervision when [illegible] the fleet of fine boats in his charge. The [illegible] of John Holland, master builder, and John [illegible] engineer of the same company are now [illegible] by these gentlemen.

[illegible] THE COLUMBIA BAR.—Captain Powell, [illegible] engineer's office, has just published a [illegible] of the mouth of the Columbia, prepared from [illegible] made during the past summer. It is in[illegible] especially for the benefit of shipmasters and [illegible] is a carefully and somewhat elaborately [illegible] document. The position of the buoys and [illegible] of the wrecks on the bar are accurately [illegible] the deep water channels marked out by [illegible] lines—the eighteen-foot channel in red ink, [illegible] four-foot channel in white, the forty-[illegible] channel in yellow and the intermediate [illegible] in distinctive colors. One of the principal [illegible] of making the chart is to keep up a history [illegible] changes in preparation for the work of [illegible] improvement, which is to be commenced [illegible] in the future.

[illegible] COMPLETION.—The prospect of a [illegible] channel at Swan island in the not distant [illegible] is very good. It is expected that the city [illegible] will finish a cut, giving eighteen feet at low [illegible] through to the cut made by the government [illegible] about the 20th instant. This will give a [illegible] through the Swan island bar in a [illegible] line with the wharves, which will keep open [illegible] than the channels heretofore cut. With the [illegible] to occur in the river soon, this channel [illegible] accommodate any ship likely to come here, un[illegible] be filled in to some extent by the first [illegible]. The cut will not be so advantageous as if [illegible] have been prolonged for another month, [illegible] is impossible, owing to the appropriation [illegible] exhausted.

[illegible] FROM THE PERSON.—Chris. Oulsen was [illegible] by Officer Keegan early yesterday morning [illegible] near Front, on a charge of larceny [illegible]. The prisoner was accused by John [illegible] stealing $30 from the pocket of the latter [illegible] intoxicated. Ohlsen was taken to the [illegible] and locked up. In the police court yester[illegible] the defendant pleaded not guilty and [illegible] for a hearing to-day at 1 [illegible] by the district attorney that [illegible] witness might be spirited away by [illegible] and on that account Grant [illegible] to ensure his attendance on SCARCITY OF NUT-BEARING TREES.—It is strange that no orchards of nut-bearing trees are planted in this section, when it is proven that trees of this kind do well here. A few black walnut-trees are met with in different places which grow well and bear abundantly. A short distance north of this city a party of surveyors yesterday found two chestnut trees, planted there some thirty years since by one Long, then owner of the property, which were laden with fine large chestnuts, superior to those brought here. There are no nut trees indigenous to this state except hazel, which reaches the proportions of a tree here, but there is no reason why we should not raise a plentiful supply of walnuts, hickory, butter and chestnuts, if only the trees were planted.

ALLEGED ROBBERY.—J. Kelly was brought to the police station yesterday morning, having been found by an officer at the lower end of town in a very dazed condition. Upon coming to himself Kelly told a strange story. He claims to have come from Montana over the line of the N. P. R. R., and had $1800 in his pocket. Thursday night he went into a saloon somewhere up town and entered a faro game at the rear of the saloon. He lost $1 50 on the table and then took a drink of liquor which he alleges was drugged. He remembers nothing after that except that when he regained consciousness he found the policeman bending over him and all his money gone. His story is taken with a liberal allowance of salt.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING SOCIETY.—The high school debating society has elected the following officers for the ensuing three months: President, Clyde Duniway; first vice president, Miss Myra Cooper; second vice president, [illegible] C Giltner; third vice president, Libbie M. Dickinson; secretary, Nellie F. Walker; treasurer, Walter Dodd; sergeant-at-arms, James Pearcy; membership committee, Grant Marquam, Nellie Northrup, George Collins. The next debate will be held Friday evening, October 12. The subject for debate is: "Resolved, That pauper immigration should be prohibited." The affirmative side will be presented by F. E. Gescord and Libbie Dickinson; the negative by Charles Sequest and George Collins.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—The First Congregational church of this city has given up its choir and adopted congregational singing, which bids fair to be a success. The precentor stands directly in front of the pulpit and leads the people, as in the good old days, before choruses were heard of on side of European cathedrals. The anthem is of course omitted, and the service is shortened. What style of music the trustees will adopt when the large pipe organ arrives is not yet known. The evening service has been changed from 7:45 to 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Marvin speaks to-morrow night on "The Lights and Shades of Married Life."

FOOT CRUSHED.—John Roe, the elevator boy in Ainsworth block, had his foot badly crushed yesterday afternoon. The elevator was ascending, and his foot was projecting over the edge about two inches, and when it reached the third floor his foot caught between the elevator and the wall. Dr. Wheeler was called and dressed the bruises. It is thought no bones were broken. The boy was taken to his home on the corner of Fourth and Oak streets. When he gets so he can walk and return to his work he says he will always stand in the center of the elevator.

Y. M. C. A. MEETINGS.—H. J. McCoy, the celebrated Y. M. C. A. orator and organizer, arrived on the steamer last night. He comes to aid the association in this city. To-night he will speak at the regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Sunday forenoon he will address the people of the First Presbyterian church; Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church and Sunday night at the Taylor street Methodist church and Thursday at the First Congregational church.

WHISTLING BUOY.—A large whistling buoy is lying on the wharf at the foot of D street, and workmen from the Willamette iron works are engaged in putting it in order for use. It resembles in shape a monstrous top, the stem of which is about fifteen feet in length, and as many inches in diameter. When ready for use it will be placed in position at the mouth of the Columbia.

BRIEF MENTION.

Minstrel matinee this afternoon.

James Foley, an old time offender, was sent to jail for fifteen days yesterday for vagrancy.

Our correspondent at Albany reports the Willamette river rising slowly. It is not yet appreciable in this city.

A free social, at which there was reading, speaking and singing, was held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening.

Offices for rent are now said to be in great demand. It is supposed that this is owing to the recent influx of newly-fledged lawyers.

A dime social was held at Plymouth church last evening. With musical and literary exercises a very pleasant evening was passed.

The examination of C. P. Apponyi, arrested for the alleged seduction of May Clark, has been postponed till Monday next at 2 o'clock by Justice Greene.

Yesterday the gratifying report came from Astoria that the fever had left Captain Alexander, and strong hopes were now entertained of his ultimate recovery.

"Last Chance" Miller, who shot James Quigley some months ago, was arrested for drunkenness Thursday and paid $10 into the city treasury yesterday.

After their last performance this evening the minstrels go to the Sound, where they will undoubtedly meet with the same success that they have achieved here.

A collision occurred between two cars of the Washington street line last night, near the depot, and a horse was so badly injured that it will have to be killed.

John Hall, who is charged with stealing a prayer-book from J. K. Gill & Co., was arraigned in the state circuit court yesterday and given time until to-day to plead.

Band of Hope No. 1 will hold its regular meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp, in the hall over Prentice's music store. All children invited and members earnestly requested to attend.

On yesterday, five first-class and seventeen emigrant tickets for St. Paul and the east were sold here, and the day before there were thirteen first-class, two second-class and forty-three emigrant.

There are messages in the telegraph office for Cort D. Thompson, Hon. P. P. Prim, Jas. A. Redfern, W. Wood, Mrs. G. Wingate, Frank A. Howard, Dr. L. L. Hope, Wm. L. Lock, D. Leigh, J. A. Taggard.

P. McMahill, who robbed the old Willsburg farmer, Joseph Allen, when he came down to the last spike celebration, was called up in the state circuit court and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Letters for the following named persons remain uncalled for at Wells, Fargo & Co.'s: W. E. Hickey, Miss Jennie A. Hillman, Eugene H. Levy, Harry Coy, Alfred Norton, Miss Kittie Smith, David Simon, Shield Bros., Dr. O. L. Worthington, C. E. Watkins, C. Miller.

Wm. Foley, one of the recently admitted lawyers has been appointed by Judge Stott to defend Owen McDermott, charged with the larceny of an overcoat from the office of the Portland Street Railroad Company. McDermott was arraigned yesterday, and will plead to the charge to-day.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Vacuum Motor Machine Company was held a few days ago at Corvallis, and the general offices were transferred to Portland. Where the money will come from to keep up the offices, now that all the stock has been made preferred and non-assessable, is not known.

A smart shower of rain, followed by hail, passed over the city about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, causing pedestrians to seek the shelter of awnings, and making it uncomfortable for the hackmen and others awaiting the arrival of the west side train. Both hackmen and their horses will be more accustomed to such episodes before the winter is over.

The mail agents on the N. P. R. R. now run through from this city to Helena. They leave here in the morning and reach Helena on the evening of the next day. Their opportunities for sleeping during that time are very few, and the trip is far from being a pleasure jaunt for the boys. The first through trip from Helena to this city was made by J. H. Swaney, who arrived here Thursday evening.

STREET CLEANING NONSENSE.

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Ordinance No. 3955, approved September 21, 1883, recites something about cleaning streets, but not anything about the time for which the contract shall be let. The street committee now advertise for proposals to do the work "according to ordinance 3955." To do such work well and cheaply requires a special outfit, costing several thousand dollars; therefore the contractor should be insured employment long enough to justify him in the purchase of a proper outfit, not less than three or five years. Then a bidder can make an intelligent bid if the specifications in the ordinance or advertisement are intelligible; but when no time is named it is impossible for a contractor to make an intelligent bid. Do the committee intend to do any business in the way of street cleaning, or is it all to end in wind? Other advertisements for bids are very explicit, but this one, coming out in the way it does, looks very peculiar. If it is not changed into such shape that a bidder shall know what he is bidding about the streets will go dirty a while yet. SPECTATOR.

[Section 2 of ordinance 3955 provides that a notice shall be published not less than three insertions in the newspaper doing the city printing, specifying the ward in which are situated streets to be cleaned, the number of this ordinance and the time of letting. If this section had been complied with our correspondent would have had no reason to complain, and it is probably simply through inadvertance that such advertisement was not made before sealed proposals or bids were demanded.]

AMUSEMENTS.

WRESTLING MATCH.—William Muldoon, the famous athlete, sails from San Francisco for Portland to-day. His match with Donald Dinnie takes place next Wednesday evening at the New Market theater. The choice of place is a happy one, as it will give ladies an opportunity of seeing this rare and exciting contest. The sale of reserved seats commences at 9 A. M. Monday, at Cornelius' drug store.

MOSS' MINSTRELS.—The performances of this troupe this afternoon and evening will close their engagement in this city. The company is one possessing much merit, and with the strong attraction of Bessie Louise King's singing, furnish an entertainment seldom equaled on the Pacific coast. This evening Miss King, in addition to her usual repertoire, will recite "The Last Hymn," and sing Charley Bray's latest song, "Rose and Robin."

LOSS OF THE CAIRNSMORE.

An Investigation before a Naval Court, Vice-Consul Cherry President, Held at the British Consular Agency in Astoria.

From the Astorian, Oct. 5.

A crowd of mariners stood around the entrance to Vice-Consul Cherry's office yesterday morning, waiting for a summons in reference to a court of inquiry into the loss of the Cairnsmore on the 27th ult. The court convened at 10, in pursuance to the following order:

WHEREAS, The British barque Cairnsmore, was wrecked near the bar of the Columbia river on the 27th day of September, 1883, and whereas I consider it expedient that the matter should be investigated by a naval court, I do hereby order a court of which I shall be president, to assemble at the British consular agency at this place at 10 A. M., on Thursday, Oct. 4, 1883, for that purpose, at which court you are hereby required to attend as members.

P. L. CHERRY, British Consular Agent.

This was addressed to Capts. Prideaux of the Chasca and Shorett of the River Nith, who in conjunction with Vice-Consul Cherry, constituted the court, Mr. Joshua Taylor acting as clerk.

Capt. Gibb master of the Cairnsmore was the first witness examined. His testimony was substantially the same as that embodied in the report furnished The Astorian upon his reaching this city. In addition he stated that at noon on the day the vessel struck she was in lat. 46. 10 N., long. 125. 46 W.; weather very thick and smoky; wind baffling and variable. At 2 P. M. weather calm; vessel not steering; hove patent log no bottom. At 5 P. M. wind sprang up; set all square sail and steered N. N. E., which by his compass was N. E. by N½ N., true. At 8 o'clock shortened sail and took a cast of the lead; no bottom. At 9 o'clock the vessel going five knots; altered ship's course to E. by N. At 10 o'clock hove yards back, having sailed 60 miles since 8 o'clock, and calculating that the ship was forty miles off the land. At 10:30 P. M. ordered second mate to lash the hand lead onto the deep sea lead to make it heavier.

Q.—Was the ship hove to?

A.—I gave orders to pass the lead along and haul in the starbord main braces, and to back the yards, but while passing along the line, the man having the lead in his hand, the vessel struck before the order to heave could be executed. I ordered the helm to be put to starboard, to heave her off to the northward and westward; then set all after canvass, throw yards aback, showed blue lights, but got no answer from the shore. We got the boats over and did all in our power to get the vessel off, remaining by her till 6 P. M. the next evening, the mate being employed the whole day with boat's crew pulling to the north'ard and south'ard to try to find out our whereabouts, with my authority to arrange with steamer or any other assistance that could be procured to assist her off. Hung off the ship at 6 P. M., intending to board her in the morning if possible, but when daylight broke, being very foggy, and current having driven us to the north'ard, we lost sight of the vessel, but sighted the American mail steamship Queen of the Pacific, which we boarded.

Edward Goldswain, first mate, gave testimony substantially the same as the captain's concerning the stranding of the vessel, when the court took a recess for an hour.

Upon reassembling the second mate, E. H. S. Goetz, was placed on the stand. His testimony also corroborated the rest. He said that at 8 P. M. on the evening of the 27th he came on deck, when the first mate had taken a cast of the lead, took off the topgallant sails and royals; stowed royals and left topgallant sails hanging; at 10 P. M. rounded to for soundings, but found no bottom, I casting the line myself; a few minutes before 11 o'clock got ready for another sounding, but the ship struck just as we were hauling the main braces; the captain gave orders for everything to be thrown aback, set the spanker and gaff topsails hauled well to windward; did not seem to help her at all, the ship striking heavily; early next morning attempted to get kedge out, but the sea was so heavy no one could get it into boat.

The carpenter, two seamen and the oldest apprentice were also examined and at the close the captain was recalled to furnish additional testimony, after which the court adjourned until 9 o'clock this (Friday) morning.

From a party who came up from the scene of the wreck last evening it is learned that the small anchors and chains, two full sets of sails, spars, rigging, etc., have been got ashore in all about $4000 worth, and when he left twenty-nine barrels of cement had been got out in good condition, with a prospect of unloading some more. The wreckers have two tents on the beach—in one they make their headquarters, in the other they store the goods as fast as brought to land. Four teams are engaged in hauling whatever is thrown off at low tide. While the tide is up the stuff is being hoisted on deck. Most of the water is in her aft, though yesterday's rough weather sent the sea clean over her, threatening her destruction. It is anything but a holiday job, and entails an enormous amount of the hardest kind of work.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

Vancouver Independent.

Lieutenant Eugene Blizdi, late in command of the U. S. revenue cutter Wolcott, on Puget sound, has gone to San Francisco to take command of the Rush.

Major Lawrence S. Babbitt, Ordnance corps, has rejoined his station (in command of the arsenal) at Fortress Monroe, after an absence of over a year on leave.

Lieutenant John M. Ross, R. Q. M. Twenty-first Infantry, is still sick at his quarters, without material change for the better as yet, much to the regret of a host of friends.

First Lieutenant T. H. Bradley, D Company, Twenty-first Infantry, has been promoted to captain in place of Pollock, retired. E. S. Farrow is promoted first lieutenant, vice Bradley.

Lieutenant F. H. Ebstein and family returned to the barracks last week after an absence of nearly three years, and are welcomed by many old friends. Lieutenant Ebstein will remain on duty here.

Lieutenant L. A. Chamberlain has been transferred from Light Battery K of his regiment, to Battery L at Fort Canby. He will leave San Francisco by the steamer on the 10th to join his new command.

Lieutenant R. H. Patterson has been ordered relieved from duty with light battery E, First artillery, and assigned to battery D, at Alcatraz island, Lieutenant T. J. Honeycutt is his successor. Lieutenant Patterson and his charming family will be much missed and deeply regretted by their many friends here.

In a recent eastern army paper we see the names of several old army friends who were invited to attend the Northern Pacific "golden spike" driving. The list as given was not complete. The invited from this coast were Generals N. A. Miles, Frank Wheaton, H. A. Morrow and O. D. Greene. Generals Wheaton and Greene attended the ceremony, Generals Miles and Morrow were unable to do so, by reason of other important engagements. From the list of those coming from the east we miss the name of General John Newton, one of the real heroes of the war, and one of the most distinguished of living engineers. Also we miss the names of three army officers of the olden time, who were present at the ceremony and are now very distinguished in civil life, viz: General Herman Haupt, chief engineer of the Northern Pacific railroad, General George W. Cass, president Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, and General J. H. Allen, a most prominent merchant of San Francisco and Portland.

The entertainment at the garrison theater Friday evening was one of the most pleasant of the year. The plays were excellent, the parts being well sustained by the amateur actors taking part. Mr. Robert Morrow did the part justice in his character of the young lawyer. Major Elderkin, as the lawyer's clerk, played like an old stager, and amused his friends greatly. Lieutenant Bonesteel, as the retired tea merchant, was just huge in his make-up, and as usual played his part well. Mrs. Patterson and Miss Lee Boyle improved upon former impersonations, and are still great favorites. In the second comedy, Lieutenant Patterson played to perfection the rollicking nephew, while Lieutenant Sparrow was successful in concealing himself perfectly in the make-up of the wine loving servant. Miss Elderkin also acquitted herself to the satisfaction of her friends. Mrs. Baldwin appeared, amid applause, and sung with such acceptability that she had to return for another song to still the plaudits of the audience. The Twenty-first infantry band, under the leadership of Prof. Oechele, played several pieces, and furnished the orchestra music. The entertainment was very enjoyable, and the performers were greeted with a full house.

ASTORIA ITEMS.

From the Astorian, Oct. 5.

Plenty of water at last, and now comes a coal famine; well, if it wasn't that it would be something else.

The five miles of cable which lie on Flavel's dock will be put in place between Forts Stevens and Canby as soon as Lieutenant Allen finishes his arrangements for completion of the line.

The board of equalization, which has been in session all the week, meets again this morning, when matters will be finally adjusted. The aggregate of taxable property will probably be in the neighborhood of $1,875,000.

Since the beginning of the season of '83 the total shipments of salmon from this port to date aggregate 433,291 cases. Of this amount 169,216 cases have been shipped for foreign export; 38,237 cases went to New York by rail, and the remainder, 205,839 cases, were shipped on the ocean steamers to San Francisco.

It will be remembered that about two months ago Charles Thompson, a carpenter employed on Kinney's new building, fell from the second story, breaking his leg. Mr. Blaney, the foreman, has succeeded in getting a subscription of $125 for the family of the unfortunate man, who is unable to contribute to their support.

The finest Vanilla comes from Mexico. The production is small and they are consequently held at a very high price. This high price induces the makers of flavoring extracts to substitute the rank, bitter tonqua. It is by the use of the finest Mexican Vanilla Bean that Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extract of Vanilla obtains its rare excellence.

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM, Oct. 4, 1883.

The supreme court convened at 10:30 o'clock A. M., a full bench being present.

THE EAST SIDE.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

The small building owned by Thomas Lyniff and formerly occupied by him, which obstructed the approach to the Third street bridge at the north end, was yesterday pitched overboard to the bottom by the owner, he not being able to secure a site on which to remove it. The elevated roadway lacks only a small portion of the decking and railing to be completed, and Mr. Keenan has commenced work on the grading between the bridge and J street. With fine weather the whole improvement will be completed in the course of a few days, and be ready to be obstructed by old wagons and other plunder, the purpose for which elevated roadways appear to be generally used. Mrs Charlton owns a dwelling on the southeast corner of J and Third streets, which occupies about nine feet of the sidewalk portion of the street; but as sidewalks are not included in the improvement, this will be allowed to remain till spring, when the owner intends to remove it to give place to a two-story business brick. There being about three feet of the sidewalk unobstructed, a three plank sidewalk will be laid meantime to connect with the bridge.

The O street improvement will be completed by the next meeting of the council, one week from Monday next. Work has been somewhat retarded by the inability to procure lumber for the bridges. The first one, across the canyon, between Eighth and Ninth streets, is finished, in Mr. Spowe's usual good style, and the second, across Asylum slough, at Tenth street, is in progress of construction and will be completed by the time stated. Mr. Keenan, the contractor on the grading, will finish up the work, rain or shine.

MUST BE PEACEFUL.

The case against John Robertson, for threatening to kill, came up in Justice Slikes's court yesterday afternoon, and the charge being proven, the defendant was required to furnish bonds in the sum of $500 to keep the peace. Messrs Paul Stanley and Julius Goldsmith became his bondsmen, and he was released. The disturber of his felicity, named Henry Griffin, is still non est.

NOTES.

J. D. Myers brother of H. C. Myers of this city, reports the discovery by him and others of gold on the Molalla, about thirty-five miles from Oregon City.

J. H. Nisson is organizing a dancing school for gentlemen, proposing to give a course of eight lessons. The school will meet at Nappach's hall, and will commence as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained.

The first note of the First National bank of East Portland was issued yesterday, and was secured by T. J. Matlock. The bank, however, will not be ready for business till next January. The officers are: President, A. H. Breyman; cashier, B. H. Bowman; directors, W. Breyman, E. Breyman and John Summerville.

Nine new passenger coaches arrived over the N. P. road yesterday from Wilmington, Del., and were taken to the car shops. They are designed for service on the C. & C. road. Two new locomotives of the Baldwin make have also arrived by steamer, piecemeal, and will be set up under the direction of the foreman, Mr. Park Brandt.

NEWBERG AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

NEWBERG, Yamhill Co., Oct. 3.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The second annual fair of the Newberg agricultural society is now in session. The weather was fine to-day and the crowd was immense. Good order prevailed and everything was lovely. No whisky or beer is sold nearer than Dayton, eight miles away, and of course we had no rows. The display in the farm and garden department is very good, consisting of a great many varieties of very fine wheat and oats, big potatoes, squashes, etc. The display of fruit, consisting of both green and canned, is fine. Some very fine pen work is on exhibition, which was executed by Samuel Hobson and Joseph Everest, both of Newberg. Dayton is represented by Cohen, the harness man, Moss with a fancy dog cart, Baxter with farm implements, and Mutchler with a fine display of buggies and wagons. Hobson and Edwards of Newberg make a nice showing of general merchandise. Some good hogs are on exhibition, all of the Essex breed. The cattle show is no large, but the Short Horn and Jerseys are both represented.

Twelve of the Indian children from the Forest Grove training school are here with considerable of their work consisting of bread, fancy and needle work, boots and shoes, blacksmithing, etc., all of which attracts a great deal of attention. The children favored the crowd in the pavilion with songs this evening, which were highly appreciated. Fine music by the Newberg and Pleasant Hill bands. No gambling houses nor cut-throat establishments allowed on the grounds. W.

Dr. C. W. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills are prepared expressly to cure and will cure Headache of all kinds, Neuralgia, Nervousness and Dyspepsia. Proved and endorsed by physicians.

SALEM NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, Oct. 5, 1883.

The governor's new residence is rapidly nearing completion.

The circuit court for this county will convene on Monday next.

Wesley Graves, Esq., has leased the Chemeketa hotel for another year.

Hon. R. P. Earhart returned this morning from a flying trip to Portland.

Mrs. E. N. Cooke of this city accompanied the pioneers on their eastern trip.

Hon. J. F. Watson and Hon. Geo. H. Williams of your city are here in attendance at the supreme court.

Dr. John Kenworth, of East Portland, is in the city perfecting arrangements for the early removal of the insane to the new building in this city.

The Depot Water Company has filed articles with B. W. Grandy, A. C. Huntington, L. Baer and H. Anson as incorporators, and its principal office at La Grande.

The Christian church at Forest Grove has filed articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state, with N. B. Wells, Philip Beal and Belle P. Walker as incorporators. Capital stock, $400.

The man Gillam, who a few days since was adjudged insane in this county, and confined in the jail to await the occupancy of the new building, was discharged this morning, having, under medical treatment, fully recovered.

It will be of interest to Spanish and Cuban Freemasons to know that Hon. R. P. Earhart of this city has been appointed and commissioned as grand representative of the Grand Orient or Masonic college of Spain (at Madrid) in the jurisdiction of Oregon. He is also the resident representative of the grand lodge of Freemasons of the island of Cuba.

ALBANY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, Oct. 5, 1883.

The Willamette is rising very slowly.

Carl Luderman is again able to be on the street after his late illness.

The fire boys will give their next ball at Parrish's hall next Friday evening, October 12.

Deacon Hatch and son of Salem are in the city engaged in lowering the Baptist church.

The next regular meeting of the Y. P. T. U. will be held at the Y. P. C. A. hall next Saturday at 2:30 o'clock P. M.

Frank Dannals has purchased of Dell Lampman his interest in the skating rink, and has sent east for a number of skates.

Last Tuesday night a valuable horse owned by James Welch, but being worked by George Cline, fell in the stable and choked itself to death.

A pleasant party was had at the residence of George Young last Saturday evening, many of his friends coming in to wish him a pleasant trip to his old home in the east.

Merrill Fish came near meeting with a serious accident while at work in the chair factory. A stick flew from the circular saw and struck him on the forehead, knocking him senseless for a short time.

The Linn county temperance alliance will be held at the Y. P. C. A. hall in this city, commencing Wednesday, October 17. A cordial invitation is extended to all temperance organizations in the county to be represented, and all friends of temperance are cordially invited to attend the meeting. A number of prominent speakers are expected to be present.

BROWNSVILLE ITEMS.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 2.

The corn crop in this vicinity appears larger than heretofore.

There is a blind man here taking the town through a course of lectures.

The roads are in an excellent condition and many farmers have commenced plowing.

Mr. J. D. Arthurs of this place will attend the U. S. court at Portland as one of the jurors.

The south Brownsville school will commence next Monday with Mr. V. C. Brock as teacher.

Good beef is sold here for 15c; grapes, 4c; no butter in the market; eggs, 30c; potatoes, $1; apples scarce at $1.

Messrs. W. R. Kirk and John Waters are off with the pioneers. Mr. K. will stay till Christmas; but Mr. W. will return in a few weeks.

Mr. W. Washburn and son will on the 18th inst. ship two car loads of cattle and sheep to the Portland market. This is a good beginning for this season.

Yesterday a train passed Brownsville for the first time for months. Regular trains will soon run to a point where the narrow gauge intersects the Albany and Lebanon road. From there the freight will be taken out the standard gauge.

DRAIN ITEMS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

DRAIN, Oct. 5.

Mr. Gus Woods, of Elkton, Douglas county, was thrown from a wagon by a runaway team Wednesday and had his arm broken.

Mr. James Hill, a deputy sheriff of Coos county, came down on Friday's train, having in charge a young man who is insane.

Dr. D. Payton, an old pioneer of Oregon formerly of Salem but latterly of Drain, has made arrangements to remove to Stockton, Cal., where he will practice his profession.

Rev. T. W. Fleming, a blind man, who is said to be a fine orator, is at present engaged in a tour of lectures in Southern Oregon, having lectured at Drain on Thursday evening of this week.

Anna, a 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Mattoon, of Drain, while playing near some burning logs accidentally set her clothing on fire from the effects of which she was so badly burned that she died a few hours afterward, although everything that medical skill could do was done to save her.

MISSOULA ITEMS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

MISSOULA, M. T. Oct. 1, 1883.

A heavy rain has fallen since yesterday evening, which has cleared the atmosphere from the smoke and settled the dust.

The new depot is nearing completion, and promises to be one of the most commodious and elegant buildings of its kind along the line of the road.

Many people are daily passing through town en route for the new gold field in Idaho. Reports say that the diggings newly discovered there are unusually rich.

Articles of incorporation were signed and acknowledged on September 29, 1883, by R. A. Eddy, A. B. Hammond, E. Stone, F. A. Woody, W. F. Sanders and E. L. Bonner to build the Bit er Root Valley railroad. The new road will begin at Missoula and extend through the Bitter Root, and possibly will go to Salmon City, Idaho. The corporate stock is $1,000,000. Steps will be taken immediately to secure the right of way from the farmers in the valley, after which work will be immediately commenced. It is confidently hoped that the new road will be finished before another year shall have expired.

GIVEN UP BY DOCTORS.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George—I know hops are good."

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 6, 1883.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Eastern Oregon.

The Walla Walla Statesman's correspondent at Milton says: Wheat is still pouring into the station, but we were informed this morning that unless cars were forthcoming the station would be closed against receiving any more for awhile, as there is no more room to spare, and that not another sack would be receipted for until cars were furnished to take it away.

Western Oregon.

W. B. Fisk has found ten valuable coal veins on the Forest Grove and Astoria railway route, four of the best being situated on Pebble creek. The coal is of the lignite variety, and is said to be of superior quality.

Gazette: Three families from Dakota arrived in town on Monday, having come through with their teams. They report being well pleased with the Willamette valley, and will become citizens of Benton county.

Washington Territory.

Vancouver is an applicant before the present legislature for a new city charter.

McCaffey Bros., of Walla Walla, say they will rebuild their flouring mills at once.

Williams, the man who stabbed W. Lockenfells, in a bar-room fight at New Tacoma, a few days since, has been sent to jail to await trial, in default of $1000 bail.

Tacoma Ledger: Sheriff Winsor returned from San Francisco on Monday evening, having succeeded in making Captain Adams, of the Richard III, give a bond of $3000 for his appearance at the next term of the district court, to answer the charges filed against him.

The body of Michael McLeod, a native of Nova Scotia, was found on the beach at the foot of Jackson street, Seattle, on Wednesday morning. Death undoubtedly resulted from drowning, although the body was high and dry when discovered. McLeod was a temperate man, and his death was due to an unlighted wharf.

In accordance with resolutions of the board of commissioners of Clarke county, Sheriff Norton on Saturday sold the old court house and grounds at public sale. The building and lots were bid in by the Sisters of Charity at $1030. There were only two other bidders. The lots will be used for extension of the grounds and buildings of St. Joseph's hospital.

Chehalis Nugget: The tax list of Lewis county for 1883, was delivered to the county treasurer last Saturday with taxes charged to collector, as follows: Territorial tax, $3708 64; county tax, $10,[illegible] 64; school tax, $4000 26; road tax, $2845 48; bridge tax, $2000 75; poll tax, $1154. Total tax, $30,[illegible] 54. About $11,000 of this tax is against the N. P. R. R. Co. The school tax for this year will be greater than in any former year.

THE OREGONIAN'S regular correspondent, writing from Olympia under date of the 4th inst., says: Last evening a mass temperance meeting was held in Good Templar's hall, which was addressed by Messrs. Vernon, Pierce, Sittsel, Brooks, Harper and other good speakers, and the subject of high license and prohibition generally discussed. It is the intention to hold another meeting this evening to form a territorial temperance alliance.

Our Old Mammy.

Detroit Free Press.

"What's that for?" asked a Free Press man, as he saw a conductor on Woodward avenue take a nickel out of his pocket and pass it into the fare-box.

"For her."

"What her?"

The car stopped and the driver got down with a "Good morning, mammy," and assisted an old woman of 70 to enter the car.

"Did you pay for her?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Well, the story runs back for almost two years," he said, as he picked up his lines. "I reckon you know Bill ——?"

"Yes."

"Well, two years ago he was one of the toughest men in Detroit. He drank, swore, gambled and had all the other vices lying around loose. I tell you he was a terror when off duty and on a spree. It was getting so bad on his car that another week would have bounced him, but something happened."

"What?"

"He was coming up one evening, half drunk and full of evil, and somewhere above Davenport street he lurched over the dash-board. He caught and was dragged, and the horse began to kick and run. That old woman there was the only passenger on the car, and when she saw the accident she came out, grabbed the flying lines with one hand and the brake with the other, and, looking down upon Bill, she called out:

"'Oh! Lord! help me to save him! He's a wicked young man and not fit to die!'

"Well, she stopped the car and held to the horse until some one came along and helped Bill out of his fix, and she was all the time calling him 'poor boy' and 'my son,' and thanking God he was not killed. He had a close call, though, and it was a solemn warning. From that night he hasn't taken a drink, and no driver on this line has a cleaner mouth or is taking better care of himself."

"And the old woman?"

"She lives away out along with a daughter. Mary's two dollar bill has gone after her since that night in the way of clothes and provisions, and he'll never forget her. The story came to the rest of us after a while, and we've sort of adopted her as our old mammy. We help her on and off, pay her nickel out of our own pockets, and when the car isn't too full we have a minute's chat with her. She likes us all, and we wouldn't take her off for the whole line. It's a bit of romance among ourselves, you see."

"Yes. Did she ever talk to you?"

"Did she? She sat right there on that stool one day, two months ago, and said:

"'My son, let drink alone! It robs the pocket, cheats the brain and leaves you friendless! Don't swear! Oaths go with a vicious soul! Keep your temper! The man who can't control his temper is no better than a caged wolf!'

"She said that with her blue eyes reading my soul and her old voice trembling with earnestness, and every word went right to my heart and lodged there. She's had something to say to most of the boys, and I reckon each one is the better for it. Curious, ain't it, how we found our old mammy, and may it you'll believe with some of the rest of us that Providence had a hand in it."

Blaine in his Native State.

Gath in New York Tribune.

Mr. Blaine is generally regarded as out of the presidential struggle, but I notice one or two significant things in the region of Pennsylvania. That state has always been a Blaine state, or ever since 1873. The opposition of the republican leaders in that state to Mr. Blaine cost them their supremacy. Mr. Cameron is in a dubious state of health, and his active interference in politics for the future is not clear, while many of his lieutenants who have never been opposed to Blaine at heart, now show a desire to harmonize with the body of the republican party there. Events that are taking place in the city of New York also show that the particular influence which discouraged Mr. Blaine here is unimportant. The friction of newly arising quantities against old ones prove to be powerful. Mr. Blaine never had enemies in the state of New York among either the outsiders, politicians or the people, except as they were induced by the patronage. His hold on Ohio is still strong and throughout the west it can easily be aroused. The present lull on the presidential question and the incidental quietness of Mr. Blaine, engaged at his literary work, favor the suggestion that perhaps the secretary of state of James A. Garfield will not be completely overlooked when another convention meets to put a man in Garfield's seat.

President Grevy's Apology.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—It is reported from Madrid that the Spanish government is dissatisfied with the Paris journals' official publication that President Grevy apologized to Alfonso for the insulting reception he met with in the streets of Paris and not the full text of the apology, and has now resolved to ask for the publication of the full text. It is also reported Moreno has deferred making any changes in the Spanish ministry until all matters pending between Spain and foreign nations have been settled. Foreign powers have forwarded to Alfonso their congratulations on the enthusiastic reception accorded him on his return to Madrid.

REST FOR THE WEARY.

Men have given up in despair in pain, but have found at last instantaneous cure in the great pain-reliever, St. Jacobs Oil, without recurrence of the trouble.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Regarding Railroad Rates.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—A special meeting of the Chicago Railroad Passenger Association was held yesterday, in reference to the reduction of rates between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast. The following telegram was signed by the general ticket agents of the Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and Missouri Pacific roads: "We will at once put into effect the new rates to San Francisco and Portland, on the understanding that in divisions we are to be allowed our locals on this business pro rata, which would give us more; and as you are as much interested in this competition as we are, it is only fair that you should be subject to the usual methods of divisions now in force everywhere."

The telegram received here Monday from the general ticket agent of the Union Pacific road was supplemented yesterday by the receipt of another telegram stating that the clause limiting first class tickets to Portland via San Francisco and steamer has since been cancelled. The $95 rate is unlimited by all routes.

Newspaper Stock Sold.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—In the suit brought by Brooks & Dickson against Charles A. Byrne of the Dramatic Times, judgment was recently rendered in favor of plaintiff for $700. The receiver ordered that fifty-seven shares of the Times be sold to satisfy the judgment. Sales were made to-day by auction in the rotunda of the City Hall. Brooks & Dickson were represented at the sale by Benj. Steinhart. He started the sale with a bid of $500. The sum was increased until $720 was offered by Judge Dittenhoefer, who represented Charles Wyndham, and the stock was knocked down at that figure. The money was immediately paid over.

The President's Health Benefited.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 4.—President Arthur left West Island at 8:45 this morning for New York via Newport and Wickford junction. He has been much benefited in health.

Dropped into Eternity.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—James McStein was hanged this morning in the yard of the county jail.

FOREIGN NEWS.

PHŒNIX PARK MURDER INFORMER.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The steamer Melbourne, which arrived at Marseilles yesterday from New Caledonia with mails, had on board Joseph Smith, one of the informers in the Phœnix Park murder trials, who was not permitted to land at Melbourne. On the 9th of August Smith was recognized upon the arrival of the steamer at Marseilles, when he suddenly left the vessel, and it is believed he has taken passage for China.

HELD HIMSELF ALOOF.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says it is now positively known that Illness was not the cause of absence of the minister of war from the reception given Alfonso at Elysees on Sunday. He voluntarily and ostentatiously held aloof from the banquet. That glaring gap occasioned by his absence had to be filled by the ad interim minister.

HEAVY DEFALCATION REPORTED.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A reward of £100 is offered for the arrest of George Warden, secretary of the London and River Plate bank, who, it was said yesterday, had absconded. It is stated this morning that the loss is from £50,000 to £100,000 by Warden's defalcation, but its surplus is sufficient to cover all losses. Warden was also manager of the bank.

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Owing to the reported anti-Jewish disorders in Ekaterinoslav and other districts of south Russia, martial law has been proclaimed therein.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

NEUFCHATEL, Oct. 4.—A public meeting has been called for next Sunday to demand of the authorities the expulsion from the country of the Salvation Army.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY, Oct. 5.

Overland receipts include 2900 cs canned goods, 5 tcs 10 hf. 100 cs lard, 200 cs canned meats, 120 bbls beef, 600 kgs nails.

The State of California, sailing to-night, takes 500 tons of freight, including 280 tons of wheat, 200 sks wool, 110 bls hops, 600 M lath and 26 M feet ash lumber.

General trade is quiet, yet a very large business is doing. The complaint of insufficient stocks is continued.

FREIGHTS—The Hecla is said to get 40s from Tacoma to a direct port. Nothing doing in spot tonnage here to-day. At San Francisco there is no new business.

WHEAT—Receipts yesterday were quite large from both sections. To-day's foreign markets are steady but quiet, lessened arrivals and small number of cargoes on sale evidently being an influence. Country markets are firmer.

The weather is fair after a rain. Small arrivals for a time will tend to help affairs just now. With us the same steady business is reported from the interior and the same local dullness is apparent.

HOPS—A large shipment goes to California by to-night's steamer. The market is without change.

CHICKENS—Rather more plentiful to-day, and while sales have been made above $5 50, it would be a fair quotation for old.

EGGS—Stocks light and values firm at 25c.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 10,742 ctls wheat, 535 bbls flour, 437 ctls oats, 207 ctls bran, 104 ctls millstuff, 17 598 lbs wool, 1446 lbs hides, 45 bxs eggs, 512 bxs fruit, 2 bxs butter, 31 bls hay. Also, 22,632 ctls wheat, 256 bbls flour, 280 ctls millstuff, 3390 lbs hides, 605 sks flax seed, from the eastern section.

IMPORTS—The barkentine Tam O'Shanter includes in her cargo 11 cs can goods, 3 cs candles, 3 cs matches, 241 bls hay, 86 sks coal, 100 bbls lime, 1141 sks ground barley, 50 cs benzine, 22 cbs acid, 40 kgs powder. For Astoria she had 175 cs coal oil, 544 bls hay, 2967 ft redwood lumber, 132 sks ground barley, 12 kgs lead, 1 cs tups, 4 bbls butter, 5 bls oakum.

SHIPPING NOTES.

Steamers every three days to San Francisco this month.

The State of California sails to-night.

The Fiery Cross is discharging ballast at McCraken's.

The Kapunda will begin discharging to-morrow.

The C. D. Bryant has again been laid on her side and work of repair commenced.

The Martha Fisher brought 1178 tons coal.

The Tam O'Shanter will load lumber at Rainier.

The British Kapunda made the run from Plymouth to Maryboro in eighty-four days, and from Maryboro to this river in forty-nine days. She is a magnificent specimen of sailing craft, and has first-class fittings and furnishings. She brought 150 long tons of pig iron and 2249 bbls cement from Plymouth here.

The new Guion steamer Oregon developed a speed of twenty knots per hour on her trial trip.

The Brooklyn bridge is doing more work in bringing down topmasts. The latest victim is a steamer which lost fore and main topmasts while passing under.

The new steamer in Goss, Sawyer & Packard's yard, for the Coos Bay Company, is all framed but and partly ceiled.

The new bark St. James registers 1610 tons. The W. W. Crapo, 1048 tons, was the largest bark built at Bath.

There are a number of vessels on the way to this port that are likely to be at hand yet this month. From Newcastle, Australia, the Highland Glen leads in 71 days, followed by the Killochan, 63 days; City of Madrid, 62 days, and Oakworth, 46 days. From Brisbane, the Banffshire is out 60 days. The Glenperis, from Table bay, is 93 days out, and the Bargany 77 days from Rio. The Harry Bailey is about due from the east coast of South America. From Liverpool direct, the Bhotan is out 145 days, and via Honolulu, the Isle of Anglesea 152 days. Three vessels are on the way from Greenock, the Ironside 138 days, the Inchgreen 127 days, and the Star of Erin 111 days. From Glasgow, the Janet McNeil is out 116 days. From London, there is the Lake Erie, out 139 days, and the Oberon, out 114 days. The second Otago, from Hull, is out 116 days. From the Atlantic side the Minnie Watts heads the fleet in 148 days, the Sovereign of the Seas following in 127 days, and the new iron ship Tillie Starbuck, 108 days. The latter may do some good work and drop in on us this month. From Wilmington, California, the Amana is out 17 days, the Blengfell 16 days, and the Balaklava 10 days. From the west coast of South America there are but two or three known to be en route, the Clan Fergus being 45 days out from Valparaiso. As the arrivals of these vessels must soon be noted, our tonnage on the way promises to be quite small in a very short time, and we must look about for ships to carry the golden grain to the ports of consumption.

The British bark Africa, Captain Gilmour, arrived yesterday, 59 days from Brisbane. She reports that on August 5th, at 1 P. M., Cape Elizabeth reef, bearing northeast, distant about 8 miles, saw what looked to be a vessel on the southeast point of the reef with signals of distress flying. Bore down toward her as close as prudent when they showed signal, "must abandon." Our ship was hove to, but it being nearly low water they could not get their long boat over the reef that night. Here was also a strong current drifting us to N W, so we stood off and on, and the next day got the crew, consisting of master, mate, steward, three seamen and a boy, on board. The vessel abandoned was the three-masted schooner Alma, iron, of Dunedin, 163 tons register. She was lost during the evening of the 3d during thick weather. We landed the men off Doubtless bay, north end of New Zealand, in their own boat, August 14. Had variable weather on passage.

The American Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia launched, September 29, the iron ship T. F. Oakes, of 1800 tons register and 3200 tons cargo carrying capacity to 22 feet draft. The weight of the ship ready for sea without cargo is 1450 tons. Her dimensions are as follows: Length over all from figurehead to stern, 264 feet; length on loadline, 254 feet; breadth, 42 feet; depth of hold from upper deck to ceiling, 24½ feet; from top of main rail to bottom of keel, 30½ feet; keel stem and stern post, 10x2¼ inches; frames, 5x4x8-16 inches; reverse frame, 3½x3-16 inches; deck beams, 10½x10-16 inches; garboards, ¾ inches thick; sheer strake, 13x16 inches thick; skin plating, 11-16 inches thick; length of mainmast from step to head, 95 feet; length of main yard, 92 feet; hight of in fu truck above spar deck, 172 feet; area of sails, 20,600 square feet.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE!

"REX MAGNUS"

The Humiston Food Preservative,

Keeps All Kinds of Food Absolutely Fresh

for any length of time. It will not only keep fish, flesh and fowl, eggs, milk, butter and cream, perfectly fresh and sweet, but it actually improves their quality.

Tough and Dry Meats Made Tender.

L. B. Hascock, of Faneuil Hall Market, Boston, says: "I kept some tough, dry, old ewe mutton, which had been treated with this preparation, in my stall for over two months. Tasted and others ate of it, and it was as sweet and tender as any mutton could be."

It is Tasteless, Harmless and Cheap.

REX MAGNUS is a combination of well known antiseptics, perfectly simple and harmless in character, and its use will not injure the most feeble and delicate system. It really promotes health, for it makes meats mellow, tender and juicy, and absolutely prevents that decay which even in its earlier stages renders food unwholesome for the human stomach.

No Taste of it can be Detected in Food.

It has withstood the most searching tests in this respect. Dishes of treated and untreated meats, fish, oysters, milk and cream have been placed side by side at several notable dinners in Boston, New Haven and Chicago, and no one could tell which was preserved and which was fresh.

How to Get It.

All druggists and grocers keep it. Sample pound sent prepaid (by mail or express, as we prefer) on receipt of price. (Name your express office.) "Viandine," for meats, poultry, etc., 50 cents per lb. "Ocean Wave," for oysters, lobsters, etc., 50c. "Pearl," for cream, $1. "Snow Flake," for milk, butter, etc., 50c. "Queen," for eggs, $1. "Aqua-Vitae," for fluid extracts, etc., $1. "Anti-Ferment," "Anti-Fly" and "Anti-Mold," 50c 2 lb each. (Mention this paper.)

Put up in 1-lb and 5-lb cans and in 25-lb boxes.

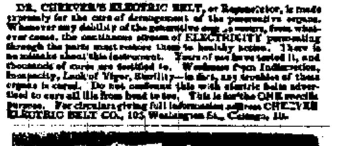
DR. CHEEVER'S ELECTRIC BELT, or Regenerator, is made expressly for the cure of derangement of the generative organs. Whenever any debility of the generative organs occurs, from whatever cause, the continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. There is no mistake about this instrument. Years of use have tested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from Indiscretion, Incapacity, Lack of Vigor, Sterility—in fact, any trouble of these organs is cured. Do not confound this with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the ONE specific purpose. For circulars giving full information address CHEEVER ELECTRIC BELT CO., 103 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.



C. B. FETY, SEAL ENGRAVER

DR. GIBBON'S Dispensary, No. 623 Kearney St., San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness and Impotency. Loss of Manhood permanently cured. The sick and afflicted should not fail to call upon him. The Doctor has visited the hospitals of Europe and obtained a great deal of valuable information, which he is competent to impart to those in need of his services. DR. GIBBON will make no charge unless he effects a cure. Persons cured at home. Call or write. All communications strictly confidential. Send ten dollars for a package of medicine. Address Dr. J. F. GIBBON, Box 1957, San Francisco, Cal. (Mention Daily Oregonian.)

SWAYNE'S PILLS

Important to the Sick! Symptoms indicate disease, a continuance, injury, suffering—permanence death. Symptoms are: impure blood, costiveness, irregular appetite, headache, sour belching, so pain in back, breast and side, hoarse palms, giddiness, bad color to stools and urine, hot and cold sensations, yellow skin. "SWAYNE'S PILLS" cure by gently removing all corrupt matter, regulating and nourishing the system. Twenty-five cents (in stamps) box of 30 pills; 5 boxes, $1, at druggists or by mail. Address DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa.

"WE KNOW ALL ABOUT IT" (DEVELOPED)

PARTS OF THE HUMAN BODY ENLARGED, DEVELOPED AND STRENGTHENED," etc., is an interesting advertisement long run in our paper. In reply to inquiries we will say that there is no evidence of humbug about this. On the contrary, the advertisers are very highly endorsed. Interested persons may get sealed circulars giving all particulars by addressing ERIE MEDICAL CO., P. O. Box 513, Buffalo, N. Y.—Toledo Evening Bee.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC

Is not a triumph of science, but is a revelation through the instinct of the untutored savage, and is a complete antidote to all kinds of Blood Poison and Skin Humor.

Swift's Specific has cured me of Scrofula, which is hereditary in my family. I have suffered with it for many years, and have tried a great many physicians and all sorts of treatment, but to no purpose, and when I began to take Swift's Specific I was in a horrible condition; but, thanks to this great remedy, I am rid of the disease. There is no doubt that it is the greatest medicine in existence, and I hope any who doubt will write to me.

E. C. HAWES, Jr., Clarkesville, Ga.

After suffering twenty-five years with a painful Dry Tetter, and trying many physicians, I was at last relieved by the use of Swift's Specific, and I cheerfully commend it to all similarly afflicted.

REV. I. R. BRANHAM, Macon, Ga.

$1,000 REWARD

Will be paid to any Chemist who will find, on the analysis of one hundred bottles S. S. S., one particle of mercury, iodide potassium, or any mineral substance.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,

Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

Write for the little book, which will be mailed free.

Price—Small size $1 per bottle; large size, holding double quantity, $1 75 per bottle. All druggists sell it.

For sale by HODGE, DAVIS & CO., Portland.

DID SHE DIE?

"No!

"She lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years,"

"The doctors doing her no good,"

"And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about."

"Indeed! Indeed!"

How thankful we should be for that medicine."

A DAUGHTER'S MISERY.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery,

"From a complication of kidney, liver, rheumatic trouble and nervous debility,

"Under the care of the best physicians,

"Who gave her disease various names,

"But no relief,

"And now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had shunned for years before using it."—THE PARENTS.

FATHER IS GETTING WELL.

My daughters say—

"How much better father is since he used Hop Bitters."

"He is getting well after his long suffering from a disease declared incurable."

And we are so glad that he used your bitters.
